WUCHOW NEWS LETTER

Peace and Prosperity
Up Country

A BIG FIRE

Wuchow, June 28.

Your correspondent has just returned from a three weeks trip to the north east section of Kwangsi. The trip included the three towns of Ping Loh, Yang, Soh and Kong Cheng, and the market towns of Shao Tai Kai and Fu Li. This district lies about 180 miles north of the city of Wuchow, and for scenery is one of the most beautiful sections of the whole province. Probably the main reason why this section has not seen more tourists is due to the fact that this used to be one of the worst parts of the province for banditry, and foreigners travelling there did so at the risk of their lives. More missionaries have been robbed and kidnapped in this section than any other. One notices the many forts built on top of the higher mountains which were used as places of refuge and defence during bandit raids.

However, during the past few years much has been done to clear up the country. All the main villages are connected by telegraph and telephone with the capitals of the provinces. Roads have been built, and regular bus service can be had between Ping Loh and Kwei Lin, and also between Ping Loh and points to the east towards Canton, as well as to the west of the province. The activities of the loyal military forces have also done much to clear up banditry so that now one can travel the country with comparative safety. A company of the Canadian Rockies and the Alps, says that except for the absence of snow the scenery in this section would rival both those ranges.

The trip at present can be made in three days from Wuchow to Kwei Lin, two days by river launch, and one day by bus. Before the roads were built and launches plied the river, the trip took over two weeks by native house boat. These house boats were propelled up river by means of a rope, pulled by men and women from two to 12 in number. These people walk along a path by the edge of the river, sometimes high on the bank, with a wide cloth over their shoulders and chest to which is attached the rope. It is very slow work and sometimes the progress of the boat is hardly noticeable.

Fair Trade.

There is a fair trade in cargo and passengers done by the motor launches, of which there are five at present making regular trips between Wuchow and Ping Loh.

The Ping Loh "Asien" is fairly buzzing with the flax industry, being one of the main crops raised and the sound of the looms weaving cloth is heard throughout the city. In the Kong Cheng "Asien" silk is the prominent article. The city itself is situated in the midst of high, jagged mountains, and is one of the cleanest cities seen throughout the trip. The other main crops in the three districts are rice, sweet potatoes, tobacco, peanuts, wheat, and melons. The country is also noted for its pomelos and oranges. The crops all appear in good condition there being no signs of lack of rain.

A Big Fire.

One of the worst fires in recent years was witnessed yesterday. The four story building of the Tai Wo Tobacco Co. was completely gutted leaving only the walls and the first floor standing. The building being a complete ruin. From reports it seems that charcoal fires were used on the second floor of the building for drying the tobacco leaves, and through neglect of those in charge, the tobacco was ignited and in a few minutes the entire building was burning with intense heat. Several companies of soldiers, as well as the entire police force were called into action to handle the "crowds" which pressed in on all sides. Thanks to the quick and efficient work of the fire department, the fire was confined to the one building, and neighbouring buildings escaped with a bit of scorching and soaking of water. The fire started about 10 a.m. yesterday and to-day at 3 p.m. several firemen are still pouring water on the ruins.

SPANISH TRANS- ATLANTIC FLIERS

DENIAL THAT THEY WERE DISCOVERED DEAD

Mexico City, June 28.

Despite official declarations that the bodies of the Spanish Trans-Atlantic fliers had been found, it is now learned the story is unfounded. The originator of the story has been arrested.

A message from New York dated June 27, stated:—

It is now confirmed that the bodies of the Spanish fliers, Capt. Barban and Lieut. Collart, have been found amid the wreckage of their plane, 100 miles west of Carmen, Campeche, Mexico.

The two airmen left Seville for Havana on June 10 in an attempt to beat the British R.A.F. long-distance flight record. After successfully crossing the Atlantic, they disappeared.

SEA-FISHING INDUSTRY BILL

COMMONS DEBATE ON SECOND READING

Hong Kong, June 27.

A FURTHER step in the Government's legislative programme designed to assist industry was taken to-day when the House of Commons debated the second reading of the Sea-Fishing Industry Bill.

This measure is intended to secure remunerative prices by regulating supplies and contains provisions to regulate the mesh of net used by British vessels to regulate the size of fish sold in Great Britain; to prohibit the landing of sea fish caught in certain areas; and in certain seasons, and to regulate the quantity of fish supplied to the British markets by foreign countries. A reorganisation scheme to be considered by the fishing industry is also proposed. The Minister for Agriculture and Fisheries, Major Elliott, pointed out that the bill did not conflict with the spirit of the letter of obligations the Government were assuming, and asking other nations to assume at the Economic Conference and the steps being taken had been agreed upon with Scandinavian countries and Germany.

NAVAL MUTINY IN TSINGTAO

SEQUEL TO SHOOTING OF OFFICER

Tsingtao, June 28.

FOLLOWING an attempt on the life of Admiral Shen Hung Lieh, Mayor of Tsingtao, on Saturday, Lieutenant Feng, who tried to shoot the Admiral, was court-martialled on Sunday and shot in spite of threats that they would renounce their fealty to Admiral Shen.

Five warships thereupon deserted and sailed away on Sunday evening, leaving only three small ships in Tsingtao.

It is believed the plot was hatched while the ships were at Tangku, from which port they had just returned. The officers were reported to be dissatisfied, because Admiral Shen had refused them lucrative shore appointments.

Cotton frocks.....If you insist on looking crisp and fresh through the hot days of summer, who does not, and enjoy a clean dress every morning why not have a wardrobe of cotton dresses? "Eve" in the Gloucester has a dandy display, prices ranging from $5.00 and upwards. Here is the chance of getting a few extras at surprisingly low prices.

How to Remove Stains.

Egg stains should be washed in cold water until they completely disappear.

To remove coffee stains, stretch linen over a bowl and pour boiling water through it. For tea stains, first pour on Glycerine and then pour on boiling water through the stain.

Fruit stains are removed by stretching the linen over a bowl and pouring boiling water through the stain, letting the water fall from a distance of three feet.

Rust spots are easily removed by moistening the spot with lemon juice and covering with table salt. Let dry in the sun.

THE GARDEN

If one is fortunate enough to have a few spare beds hidden from the main garden, where experiments may be carried out, one can try to give snap dragon plants a second lease of life after the present flowering is over. Cut right down to within four inches of the roots and replant in the spare bed, which should have some sand dug in to lighten the soil. Give a good watering occasionally and when new shoots begin to appear in the late summer the plants can either be transplanted once more to the flower beds or used as a supply for cut flowers for the house.

Excellent served with any frozen dessert.

Line a deep refrigerator pan with strips of waxed paper to fit. Arrange split lady fingers on the bottom and sides with the round side out. Pour in the custard and more lady fingers to the top. Place in the cool compartment for at least 24 hours, turn out on a platter and serve with whipped cream.

THE PLAIN DIVE

Diving adds a hundredfold to the enjoyment of the water, and it is neither difficult nor dangerous if you follow the right lines. There is no need to envy the man who performs one fancy dive after another from the highest board. With a little patience and practice you can emulate him—and perhaps go one better!

Almost every fancy dive is based on the same principle as an ordinary plain dive, and this should be thoroughly mastered first of all. This is the way to execute the "English header".

Walk smartly to the edge of the board, pause slightly, and then raise your arms to the height of your shoulders, with your palms turned downwards towards the water. Your fingers must be together and perfectly straight. The body should be upright, with the toes curled slightly over the edge of the board. When your arms are raised, there should be a pause.

Raise your arms and then lower them to your side, pushing off strongly and at the same time bring your arms quickly above your head. To get the "push off" bend from the knees, not extensively, but enough to allow a strong upward and outward push to be attained. As you leave the board, raise your head very slightly and point your toes, keeping your body perfectly right until it is completely under water. The entry is, of course, head first with the arms above the head.

Master this dive thoroughly, not being satisfied until you are perfect in every detail, and you can pass on to the swallow and other fancy dives without fear.

KRAFT CREAMED EGGS WITH PIMENTO SAUCE

1 lb Kraft cheese through grater
6 hard boiled eggs
6 slices toast
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon chopped parsley.
Melt the butter, add the flour and salt, add the milk, add the milk slowly, and cook well stirring constantly. Add Pimento Cheese and beat until smooth. Arrange slices of toast on a hot platter, pour a little sauce on each piece, cut eggs in half, and place on toast, allowing one egg to each slice of toast. Pour over the rest of the sauce, sprinkle with parsley serve.

WHIPPED FRUIT JELLY

To make the whipped fruit jelly use any preferred flavour of gelatine, following directions on package for preparing the jelly. Before the liquid begins to jelly beat with a Dover beater until the jelly begins to form. Add any fruit you may have left over from previous meals and turn mixture into a mold to chill and become firm. One banana, 1 orange, a few pieces of canned fruit—any or all of these fruits can be used in combination to add interest to the jelly.

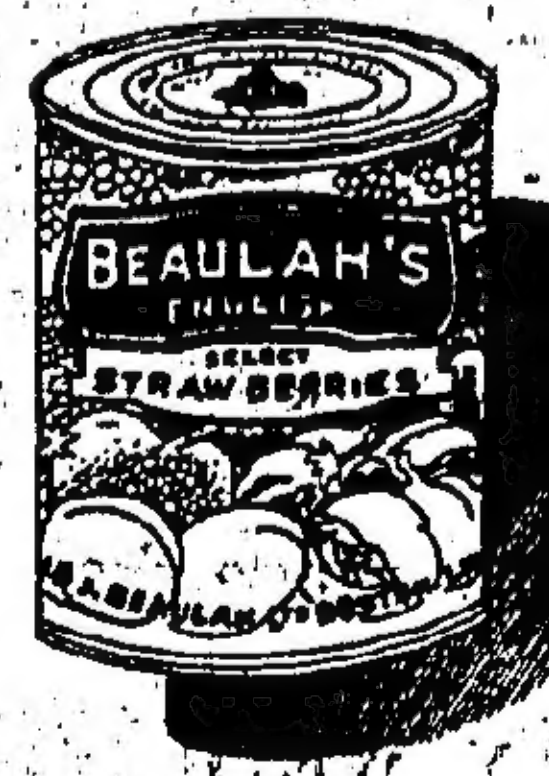

Vegetables Served in Aspic.
Fresh, canned or dried vegetables can be used to make the casserole of vegetables. The combinations are almost limitless and either tomato sauce or white sauce may be used to bind the vegetables and give body to the dish. Grated cheese sprinkled over the top of the dish adds food value as well as richness of flavor. An excellent combination of fresh, canned and dried vegetables includes a head of cauliflower, stewed dried lima beans, canned peas, diced fresh carrots and tomato sauce.

Fresh peas in tins, yes, but packed so quickly after the vines are cut they come to you actually fresher than the so-called fresh peas of the market. Packed under Sanitary conditions at Boston, Lincs, England. (Buy them by the case from any good dealer, NOW—at surprisingly low prices).

STRAWBERRIES

Raspberries, Plums, Black Currants packed right, and preserved in tins. These delicious fruits come from England, and are put up in pure fruit juices. Served with Ice Cream or Chilled in your WESTINGHOUSE REFRIGERATOR, will make just the dessert you need to top a good dinner. Can be obtained at all reliable dealers.

FOR THE GOURMET

DESSERT SUPREME

Here is a meal that is a little out of the ordinary.

You should begin with Sardine Pancakes. Make some thin pancakes with a slightly salted batter. Roll each round some mashed and boned sardines, and serve them in a long row, with a sauceboat of thin tomato gravy.

Follow this with Saute of Chicken in the usual way, using olive oil instead of butter. When it is cooked, moisten the juice from the cooking with some white wine, and add a very small piece of crushed garlic, two or three peeled and roughly-chopped tomatoes, four anchovy fillets cut small, a dozen stoned and parboiled black olives, and a pinch of basil. Cook this garnish together for five minutes or so, and pour it over the pieces of chicken.

Finish the meal with Guava Fool. Buy a tin of guavas and pass its contents (but not the syrup) through a hair sieve. Whip cream until firm, add sugar and vanilla, and fold in prepared marshmallows, fruit and nuts. Turn into a mold and let stand on ice several hours to chill and become firm.

Dainty Biscuits.
Warm to soften, but without oiling, a good two-ounces of butter. Work it well with a whisk to lighten it, and add a good two-ounces of caster sugar. Still whisking, put in two unbeaten whites of eggs, a little at a time, and whip thoroughly.

When all is added, take out the whisk and fold in very lightly a liberal two ounces of sieved flour with a metal spoon. Put the mixture into a forcing bag, and squeeze it out, through a half-inch plain biscuit pipe, on to a well-greased and floured baking tin about as long as a little finger and as thick as a thick pencil. Bake in a hot oven for four or five minutes. Vanilla essence or some other flavouring may be added, if liked.

Judge BUTTER by the facts.

Butter is such an important article in the daily list of food necessities, that its selection deserves more care than often is given.

Is the butter you are now eating as pure and safe as it should be? Is it made from unadulterated milk under conditions that would bear inspection? Are you satisfied with its all-round goodness, its appearance, flavour, purity?

You can be perfectly satisfied if you use only Daisy Brand Butter:

BECAUSE IT IS MADE FROM PURE PASTEURISED MILK FROM COWS GRAZED ON AUSTRALIA'S RICHEST PASTURE LANDS.

SOMETHING NEW AND SMART

"TEA BLONDE"

—AND A NEW PARTING

Although blonde hair is on the wane, and is being substituted by a new colour called "Tea Blonde," platinum blondes can to-day use a special powder which, when dissolved in water and used as a final rinse of the hair after shampooing, gives the hair the "tea-blonde" shade.

"Tea Blonde" is sweeping Paris and Berlin. The hardening of the features, which are accentuated by over-bleached hair, is entirely eliminated by the new tint, which gives a very attractive warm golden look to blonde hair. The new rinse is not a dye, but merely a toning agent which is employed after every shampoo.

The Latest Coiffure.

Hair is still worn short—that is, it has the appearance of being short, since coiffures seldom reach below the level of the ear tips at the back. Actually the hair is worn about two inches in length at the nape of the neck, but this is disguised by the hair being very tightly curled.

In the new coiffure the hair is unwaved near the parting to emphasize a diagonal parting, an innovation which gives the head an ultra-modern appearance.

Dry Hair.

Women who run the risk of getting their hair dried up and bleached by the sun while sunbathing should seek out a good oil which will correct this. Special oils which do not make the hair greasy can be obtained for those who like to go out of doors hatless. Watson and Lane Crawford carry a large and varied stock.

THE CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

BABY'S EYES

USE A LOW-POWER LIGHT—SQUINT CAN BE CURED—CONJUNCTIVITIS IS "CATCHING"

There should be no need to emphasize the necessity of caring for baby's eyes, since defective sight is one of the most serious of handicaps with which to begin life. Besides this, most affections of the eye are disfiguring as well as disabling.

Fortunately the eyes do not need a great deal of attention; our main duties are to keep them clean, to protect them from injury, and to notice defects and have them remedied in good time.

Cleaning of baby's eyes is best done with cotton wool swabs dipped in warm boiled water and squeezed half dry before use. Dry with baby's face towel; the best material for this is soft muslin, and the usual "half square" does as well as anything.

In considering protection from injury we have to bear in mind chiefly excessive light and draughts. Baby should have a canopy over his pram in hot sunny weather, and at such times the pram must be kept in the shade.

When baby is indoors it is important that his eyes should not be dazzled by strong artificial light, especially when he has been asleep in a darkened room.

To this end the light in his room should be well shaded, and if possible a low-power 5-10 watt bulb should be available in a table lamp for use at his 10 p.m. feed.

Out of doors the air is rarely likely to harm baby's eyes, and therefore only strong cold winds demand the use of the hood.

Indoors, direct draught across baby's face should be broken by the use of a screen.

It is a common and not altogether commendable practice nowadays to take babies quite long journeys by car.

It is essential at such times to beware of draughts, which are there found at their worst.

We cannot altogether prevent the ingress of grit and other foreign matter to baby's eyes, but we should always effect its prompt removal.

brush should be used to remove it. Otherwise, consult your doctor.

Now we come to the detection of disorders or defects. The bluish-pink colour commonly seen on the upper eyelids of young babies need cause no anxiety. It gradually fades and has usually disappeared by the end of the first year.

Redness and scurriness of the lids—commoner in young children than in infants—can usually be put right by attention to the general health and by bathing the eyes in warm boracic and applying a light smear of golden ointment to the lashes at night.

Inflammation of the white of the eye—conjunctivitis—is often infectious, and always requires a doctor's attention.

Continued watering of one or both eyes should also be medically attended—it is a difficult trouble to get rid of if it is neglected.

Last, but not least, we have squint, or strabismus, to give it its technical name. This can nearly always be cured if it is taken in time, but if neglected an operation may be necessary. One more example of this stitch in time.

Your child's health has some bearing on this important subject.

A great deal depends on the right food, there are many good brands to be had, Ambrosia and Cow-Gate Milk Food. Give your baby the proper start in life, thereby eliminating so many complications that may arise from incorrect feeding.

The customer watched the butcher weighing the meat.

"I wish you would not give me such short weight for my money," she complained.

"And I wish you would not give me such a long wait for mine," returned the tradesman.

Some facts about Baby's milk that every mother should know

THE purity of the dairy milk used in Baby's diet is of vital importance—but consistent quality is important too. Dairy milk varies in composition according to the district in which it is produced and milk that varies is not good for Baby's digestion. Devonshire milk is richest in the nourishing elements that Baby needs.

That is why "Ambrosia" is such a blessing. It is Devonshire milk exclusively, purified and dried in Devonshire itself as soon as it comes from the cows, by a unique process that retains the important vitamins. The quality of "Ambrosia" never varies and it is many times purer and more digestible than any liquid milk you can buy. For these reasons "Ambrosia" is extensively used and recommended by Hospitals, Clinics and Doctors. It is the ideal Milk Food for Expectant Mothers, Nursing Mothers and Infant feeding.

MANY TRADES AFFECTED

London, June 4.—There was a marked decline in unemployment last month, and a still greater increase of employment. Four consecutive monthly returns by the Ministry of Labour have revealed a steady improvement of industry and trade. The improvement touches nearly all industries except those that normally have their slack season in the warm weather.
During last month the number of the registered unemployed fell by depth of the winter depression, the number of the unemployed has de-

"SECRETS OF THE FRENCH POLICE"

CRIME THRILLER AT CENTRAL

Murders, master detectives, hypnotism, abductions, and diabolical plots, "Secrets of the French Police," one of the best pictures of its kind ever screened or written. See it, by all means, at the Central Theatre to-day.

As taken from the memoirs of H. Ashton Wolfe, and combined with Samuel Ornitz's amazing story, "The Lost Empress," this RKO-Radio Pictures' offers all the thrills possible to pack into an hour and a half of screen entertainment.

Guilli Andre, as the lovely Paris flower girl who is abducted by a master plotter, hypnotized, and presented as the missing Princess Anastasia of Russia, fulfils all the promise she revealed in her early pictures. Guilli Andre is considered by many to be the most beautiful woman on the screen to-day. After seeing her in this picture it is a little wonder how the impression got out.

A newcomer makes his bow in "Secrets of the French Police." He is John Warburton, as handsome and as able a young leading man as ever came from England to Hollywood. Radio signed him to a five year contract as a result of his work opposite Miss Andre. That fact is adequate comment on his appearance and his abilities.

Another deserving of the highest praise is Frank Morgan, long a Broadway stage favorite, who makes his debut as an RKO-Radio player. Morgan, as one of Bertillon's detectives, gives a plausibility to the part that makes it stand out from all others in the story. Others who come in for high praise are Gregory Ratoff, remember him in "What Price Hollywood?"—Arnold Korff, Christian Rub, and Lucien Prival.

THRILLS, DRAMA, EXCELLENT REPRODUCTION OF PURE ENGLISH, AND CLEVER DIALOGUE. ONE OF THE MOST ENTERTAINING PICTURE WE HAVE OFFERED.

"A LADY'S PROFESSION"

ALISON SKIPWORTH WON'T TELL HER AGE!

Alison Skipworth won't tell you how old she is, but she does confess two other facts.
She made her stage debut at the age of 22. And she's been on the stage for 22 years.
Experts in higher mathematics may draw their own conclusions as to the age of the veteran character comedienne, who is featured with Roland Young and Sari Maritza in "A Lady's Profession," showing to-day at the Queen's Theatre.

Miss Skipworth won movie fame after three decades of stage success when she played the leading role in "Madame Racketeer." She has been featured in five other films since "Night After Night," "He Learned About Women," "To-Night Is Ours," "If I Had a Million," and "A Lady's Profession."

"A Lady's Profession" is the story of a couple of titled Britons who suddenly discover that the family pocket-book is quite empty, and set out to fill it by opening a speakeasy in New York. Miss Skipworth and Young, cast as brother and sister, are in those roles. Miss Maritza is cast as Young's daughter.

The Britons, entirely ignorant of American customs, and particularly American underworld customs, involve themselves in some amusing scrapes. Their principal difficulties are not with the law, but with the bootleggers who supply them with their stock. The latter, terrified at the thought of joining the headline when prohibition is repealed, attempt to force them to buy more liquor than they can sell.

Miss Skipworth, battling lustily with the liquor syndicate, emerges triumphant over the bewildered bootleggers, who can't follow her British tactics at all.

A romance between Miss Maritza and Kent Taylor runs throughout the picture.

SINGAPORE ACTOR ON THE FILMS

MR. MAURICE BRADDELL'S CAREER

Maurice BraddeLL, who appears in the film "Men Of To-morrow," is the youngest son of the late Sir Thomas BraddeLL, and so youngest brother of Mr. E. and BraddeLL of Singapore.
Born in 1900, educated at Charterhouse and Oriel College, Oxford, which is shown in "Men Of To-morrow," he rowed in one of the best Eight O'Clocks that has since the war as a freshman and is quite different from the character portrayed by him in the film.
He only stayed at Oxford one year as he wanted to go on the stage and not to the Bar. Through Sir Nigel Playfair, a friend of the family, he began in the Birmingham Repertory Company and thereafter acted in London and America.
He is a writer as well as a stage and film actor and is the author of Seymour Hicks' present play "It's You I Want," one of the outstanding London successes at present.
Studied in Moscow.
Two or three years ago he studied film work in Moscow for a month or two and wrote some very interesting articles in the London Press about the Bolsheviks. He has also worked in Berlin and Paris in the films and in several English pictures, notably as the dying airman in the Nurse O'Connell picture. Sir Oliver Lodge picked him specially for Raymond, but the picture was never made.
He and his wife are personal friends of Leontine Sagan (the celebrated German directress who directed "Madchen in Uniform") and who was specially engaged for "Men Of To-morrow" because of her

"THE PAINTED WOMEN"
A SOUTH SEAS ROMANCE
Spencer Tracy has at last gone romantic. The two-acted be-man actor whose screen characterizations have won him the admiration of a rapidly growing army of fans, turns in a brand-new portrayal in "The Painted Women," the South Seas romance coming to the King's Theatre shortly.
As a rough-and-ready vagrant of the seven seas who is turning his hand to pearl-diving with some success when he suddenly encounters love for the first time, Tracy has a role different from anything he has previously done. Advance reports, moreover, say that his performance in it is sensational.
Peggy Shannon, who was recently seen in the title role of "Society Girl" and who is co-featured in the picture, is also heralded as giving the outstanding portrayal of all her film efforts. With the support of such players as William (Stace) Boyd, Irving Pichel, Raul Roulien and Laska Winter and with an exciting and unexpected story, this Fox offering is scheduled to be unusually popular during its showings here. John Blystone directed, with Guy Bolton and Leon Gordon writing the screen version of A. C. Kennedy's play.

clever psychological direction in "Madchen in Uniform") and Maurice BraddeLL found her directions for the psychology of the part wonderful but he thought it the most difficult part he had ever had to do and was very nervous as to whether or not he had got out of the part all that was wanted. The type of character he portrayed is familiar to all University men of Oxford and Cambridge; Oxford in particular is full of literary rebels and always has been.

"MARRY ME" COMING TO KING'S

RENATE MULLER IN THE LEAD

Some of the most tuneful numbers yet heard in talking films, are sung in the sparkling new Gainsborough picture, "Marry Me," which comes to the King's Theatre, Sunday next; and those who recall the diverting picture, "Sunshine Susie," will learn with pleasure that they are sung by its captivating star, Miss Renate Muller.

The theme song, "So, Will Somebody, Somebody, Marry Me," is novel in the extreme, and delivered by various members of the cast in delightful and engaging circumstances.
Another catchy tune is "Early Birds," sung by the leading players as they arise from their beds in the opening sequences of the picture.
"A Little Sunshine," sung by Renate Muller when she sits in a bus, eventually enticing all the sour-looking occupants to join in the chorus, is very reminiscent of that ever popular number, "Today I Feel So Happy."

Ian Hunter, Maurice Evans and Charles Hawtrey assist Miss Muller in another haunting number, "You're So Wonderful To Me," which they sing after she has bidden them good-night, having put into exquisite order their untidy, happy-go-lucky flat.

Each song is presented in a novel and effective manner, undoubtedly enhancing the attractiveness of the tunes.

Although the music is such an attractive feature of "Marry Me," the picture is also notable for its humour and for a brilliant cast of star artists which includes George Robey, Harry Green and Billy Caryl.

One of the finest pictures that has yet emanated from the British Studios, "Marry Me" is a film that must not be missed.

ECHOES OF 1858

III—SIR JOHN BOWRING'S POLITICAL PRINCIPLES

Our contemporaries are squabbling most harmoniously about the pranks that Worthy our Governor has played with the Jury List. We can only say that too much importance is being attached to these unworthy practices. We will put a case. Suppose one of the Hong Kong justices of the peace (and nothing is more likely) were upon his return to his native land to become a country gentleman, and be appointed to the commission of the peace; dare he let it be known among the County Magistrates, that he had ever been appointed a Justice of Peace by Sir John Bowring? We venture to say that he would shudder at the idea of the disclosure, and if the fact were noised abroad he would be banished to Coventry with as loud a halloo as ever followed a fox in full cry. Fancy an indignant Esquire, exclaiming "what Bowring!—that bawling Bolton radical—that no gentleman dared to be seen speaking to—to be nominated a justice by him? What next, I wonder!

Although since his advent to China, Sir John has been made a Knight and a Governor, his character has not in the slightest degree supported this elevation in the estimation of any. On the contrary he has become a parasite and a tergiversator, inverting the antecedents which had served to thrust him into notoriety, and dwindling into a quivering vapid political pantaloons, without friends, principals or party. No matter—the radical has accomplished his end; he has achieved the possession of place—has secured the reward which years of bustling and that, which had any political integrity held the fabric together, would have crumbled over as a wreck, may now be compared to the rotten fragments of a worthless raft.

THE TUNG WAH HOSPITAL

OUTPATIENTS TOTAL HALF THE COLONY'S POPULATION

MR. M. K. LO'S APPEAL FOR REBUILDING SCHEME

Mr. M. K. Lo in continuing his address to the local Rotary Club on Tuesday, on the subject of the Tung Wah Hospital, gave an interesting account of the reconstituting of the Institution in 1896, and the immense progress that it has made since that time. In 1831 and 1832 the numbers of out-patients were 491,600, and 500,899—or more than half the population of the Colony.

Mr. Lo referred to the plan for rebuilding the old wards of the Tung Wah Hospital and made an eloquent appeal on behalf of this excellent object, and in conclusion paid cordial tribute to the help and support that had always been received from leading members of the Government.

RECONSTITUTION IN 1896

Mr. Lo in continuing his address said:—

When I had the honour to serve on the Tung Wah in 1893, I came across a copy of the Report of the Commission appointed by His Excellency Sir William Robinson in 1896 to enquire into the working and organisation of the Hospital. It was absorbingly interesting. From a copy which was kindly lent to us by the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, we had re-printed the reports of the Commissioners, omitting however the voluminous appendices and the evidence taken. We contributed a short Introductory Note to the Re-print, from which I venture to quote the following:—

"The history of the Institution, from its incorporation to the present time, would be of permanent interest, but the materials necessary for its compilation have not been preserved in the archives of the Hospital. Fortunately Mr. Chan Yik Wan, who has been secretary to the Hospital since 1899, and whose knowledge of its affairs has been of service to us, was able to find, amongst his own papers, copies of the 'Ching Shun Luk' from 1896 onwards, from which we have extracted certain data (printed at the end of this Report) which provide an illuminating account of the growth of the Institution from that time to the present.

"The Hospital, like many other institutions of its kind, has had to face some passing clouds, if not storms; for instance, the Plague Epidemic of 1894 evoked a great deal of attention and much adverse criticism on the Institution. This and other matters led to the appointment, in 1896, by His Excellency Sir William Robinson, K.C.M.G., the then Governor, of a Commission to enquire into, and report on, the working of the Hospital.

"The first meeting of the Commission was held on February 14, 1896; and the Report, consisting of a Majority and two Minority Reports, together with the evidence and appendices, was published in 1896.

"The Report throws interesting light on the origin of the Hospital's incorporation: it shows that the main object was to replace the 'I Ts' or Chinese Hospital, concerning which there were in the year previous, some horrible disclosures of 'heartless cruelty and filth' which shocked the conscience of the community. It made various recommendations for the improvement of the Hospital, which were subsequently acted on and carried out. In this connection, attention may be drawn to clause 45 of the Majority Report, and particularly to its concluding sentence:—

"At the same time we think that it would be of advantage to the Hospital, would facilitate its relations with the Government and the public, and would secure continuity and uniformity in its arrangements, if there were associated with the annually elected Committee some Chinese residents of long standing who have had experience of the Hospital and whose advice would be respected by, and whose views would carry weight with, the Chinese community.

"It was thus that the 'permanent advisers' to the Tung Wah Hospital' came into being, and they have been a tower of strength to its management. To their sound advice and valuable assistance, the Hospital is under a debt of gratitude.

The Permanent Advisers.
Pausing here, I should like to mention that the Permanent Advisers have now received statutory recognition, as section II. of the (Continued on Page 10.)

Adventures in Kalinga SEEKING FOR GOLD

The seeking for gold in northern Luzon has spread to unexplored parts of the country as may be noted in this trip described by Captain A. K. Dickson. Captain Dickson is Oriental representative for the American Smelting and Refining Company, a mining man of long experience, having visited many parts of the world in his quest for the bright gold of Midas.

Starting from Baguio he travelled over the Bontoc Road by motor car and on to Lubuagan where his real adventuring began. The road to Lubuagan is passable for a small automobile during the dry season as the average width of the road is four meters, and is safe for any careful driver. The journey takes the traveller into the interesting Kalinga country past many villages of this northern tribe. In Lubuagan, Captain Dickson abandoned his car and plunged into the wild country to the north. About seven days is necessary to make the journey undertaken, by the mining official.

Wild Animals and Primitive Tribes.

Kalinga is reached by passing through the Chico-Cagayan Valley through the open country abounding in wild deer, many varieties of wild fowls, wild pigs, wild carabao, chattering monkeys and birds and the river swarming with crocodiles, alligators and fish. The Kalingas are a wild, nomadic race who resemble the Moros in appearance and custom, and whom tradition has it were descended from the Samals of Jolo, and who reached northern Luzon through being sent to the Spanish semi-penal colony of Tabak. Kalinga hamlets are scattered through the grass lands. They have little interest in the cultivation of crops and while settlement farm schools are being tried, the Kalingas are better hunters and cattle men than tillers of the soil.

Sulphur Springs.

From Lubuagan, Captain Dickson went by foot to Saloggo going down the Sultan River. He was the only white man to traverse much of this district, and had to cut his way through much of the dense jungle growth. He stopped in Gimaang and then went to the town of Balatoc, near Mt. Luskut which rises to a height of 7293 ft., where giant hot sulphur springs are found. The steam rises from the ground in great volume and many natives think the sound of the boiling water is a giant monster waiting to devour them. Few linger long in this vicinity.

Hundreds of thousands of tons of sulphur is found and samples were brought back to Baguio by Captain Dickson. Some years ago an article was published in one of the United States magazines, telling of the trip made across this region by army aviators, who believed that they had found an extinct volcano, but Captain Dickson believes that this is an enormous hot springs region, and the samples of sulphur which he brought back bear this out. Around Balatoc in Kalinga, a variety of wild deer and pigs are found which make good hunting.

Primitive Hunting.

Captain Dickson describes a monkey trap which the wild natives set for the unsuspecting animals as they are very fond of monkey meat. A hollow bamboo in which is concealed a spear made by splitting bamboo, burning it to a steel-like hardness, and scrapping to a sharp point. This is connected with sapling which forms a spring to send the bamboo spear into the heart of the monkey. Food is tied on a string connected with the sapling just over the spear, and when the monkey reaches for it he is pierced through the heart.

Captain Dickson also describes varieties of bird life. Wild ducks resembling wood-duck, migrate here for the breeding season for about three months each year. They are believed native to the Himalayas and are beautiful little birds with crests reaching half-way down their backs. They have the bill of the duck family and are most numerous during the season they migrate.

CENTRAL THEATRE SAFETY CURTAIN WANTED BY AUTHORITIES

The owner as well as the manager of the Central Theatre were mentioned as defendants in a summons which came before Mr. Schofield yesterday in which the Fire Brigade Authorities complained of the non-existence of a safety curtain in the theatre.

Mr. Hin Shing Lo, instructed by Mr. Peter Sin appeared for the defendants and in asking for an adjournment sine die said that if the summons were valid, the owner must carry out certain alterations, and the architects, the P.W.D. and the Fire Brigade had to be consulted, because it was a matter which concerned the safety of the public. There was a possibility of the matter being settled outside Court.

They were prepared to sign an undertaking that the theatre would not be used for a theatrical performance. If a fire broke out, it would break out, if at all, in the operating room, so that the provision of a safety curtain and a lantern light were unnecessary if they were to give this undertaking. Messrs. Palmer and Turner, the architects, were of the opinion that owing to the structural features of the theatre it would be impossible installing a safety curtain without breaking down the theatre, but some arrangements could be made to meet this difficulty satisfactorily.

It was stated in Court that six months' notice had already been given the owner, and therefore a limited adjournment would suffice. Mr. Lo admitted this was so, but owing to the serious structural difficulties, he asked that the adjournment be postponed sine die, and he felt sure the Government would be prepared to meet the request of the owner.

This case was adjourned sine die.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE IN CANTON EXTENSION OF A SHANGHAI TROUBLE

(From a Correspondent).

CANTON, June 23.
For some days past the local seamen's strike has been merrily going on, the trouble arose in Shanghai. On the Yangtze run some tea-boys were making squeeze, and this had to be stopped; as the Chinese passengers, who were the victims, in order to save this squeeze, went to other companies ships, and consequently the ship-owners were the real victims and losers.

These rascals seemed to have appealed to the Sea-Men's Union, who tried a game of bluff in Shanghai, and it should be noted to the credit and good name of the Chinese Authorities there that they put their foot down and would not stand it. So the Union tried their game in Canton, and they have up to the present succeeded in preventing all boats running to schedule time and have also held up the a.s. Fatshan.

The local Authorities here contend that it is a private matter, and as such should be "settled" by the Chinese papers all give their own version! The firm of Butterfield and Swire is always just to the Chinese and in certain ways are decidedly indulgent to their Chinese servants and this is known by all Chinese, and when this Company is treated in this way, it betrays them not to yield to this demand for squeeze.

Three days ago a coxswain of a Butterfield and Swire launch came to friend of mine, in great distress and showed an intimidating letter from the Union asking one and all of the launches to leave. The poor chap said: "Tai Koo" are our very kind Taipans, I am an old servant and it is a wrench to betray them. At the same time how can I disobey the guild.

I still hope that the Chinese officials, who understand the true state of affairs, will help to win over in one way or another the few hot-heads of the guild.

[Inquiries at the local office of the China Navigation Company elicited the information that negotiations are going on in Canton and in the meantime the only statement they can make is that the strike is not likely to spread to other ports, where grading conditions are normal with regard to their steamers.]

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ANNUAL MEETING

CHAIRMAN STRESSES NEED FOR STABLE CURRENCY

"Hong Kong Must be Kept a Free Port"

KAI TAK DEVELOPMENT COMMENDED

A comprehensive review of the Colony's business, together with the work done by the Chamber of Commerce in connection with the past year's trade was contained in the Chairman's speech at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held at Chartered Bank Building yesterday.

Among the interesting points brought out by the Chairman was that the Chamber still held the view that while it was not practical to standardise the local dollar they heartily endorsed the opinion that it was essential to have a greater degree of uniformity and stability in world exchange.

The work on Hong Kong's Airport at Kai Tak was also commended.

THE CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

The Acting Chairman, Mr. T. H. Shaw, said:—

Gentlemen,—In the absence of the Chairman of the Chamber, Mr. Plummer, it devolves upon me to present the Annual Report and Accounts.

Our Annual Meeting is held somewhat later this year, chiefly on account of work undertaken by the Secretary of the Chamber in connection with the Empire Fair, to which the Committee agreed at the request of the Hong Kong Government.

The Annual Report, which is in your hands, deals with a number of the principal questions which have occupied the attention of the Chamber during the past year, though some, which are of a confidential nature, are omitted. In addition, trade enquiries from many parts of the world arrive by every mail, and often require a good deal of investigation.

Work has increased also, by reason of the tendency of Governments to regulate the movement of commerce and to require certificates of origin. The Chamber of Commerce has had to act lately as unofficial interpreter to merchants of the rather complicated British Preference Regulations. I take this opportunity of mentioning that the requisite forms can be obtained from the Chamber so that there is no need for individual firms to go to the expense and trouble of printing their own supply. There has been a number of Arbitrations and Surveys during the year, and, in addition to routine work in this connection, the staff has been busily occupied in attending to the various interests of members of the Chamber.

Sale of Piece Goods.

A particular instance of this has been the lengthy negotiations between textile importers in Hong Kong and the Chinese Piece Goods Guild. These, I regret to say, have not reached the effective conclusion for which the Chamber worked for many months. The upshot of the negotiations is that the contract of 1923 has been revised to afford greater protection to the dealers in the matter of shipment and other vital clauses. It has been re-named "The Standard Textiles Contract of 1932." Officially, however, it has not been made effective because some of the dealers state that they need a different method of doing business, namely, buying for "arrival" instead of for "shipment"—which latter is the generally accepted practice. Meanwhile business is being done on either the 1923 or the 1932 Contract. This situation does not prevent discussion with Manchester and Bradford of a revised Contract between importers and suppliers, and you are being asked to-day to signify the formal approval of the Chamber of Commerce of a draft contract which, if you approve it, will be forwarded to the Manchester and Bradford Chambers for adoption, as representing the terms on which importers as a whole are now buying.

Developments in China bring with them an expanding demand for goods from other countries, and it is to be noted that there has just been another grading upwards of import duties. These successive tariff increases are view with concern both by importers and consumers, particularly in view of the restricted financial conditions prevailing. In textiles it would appear that the greater part of the Manchester and Bradford lines will feel the effect of the increased duties. Smuggling is also encouraged by them, and effects to check this evil are counteracted by the profits which the smugglers gain in evading the high duties.

Shipping Regulations.

Following upon the Simla Conference which our representatives, in conjunction with those of the Hong Kong Government, attended in 1931, the regulations applying to vessels trading in Far Eastern waters are now in form for final approval by the Board of Trade. From 1934 the regulations applying to the International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea and also the Simla Rules will probably be effective. In order to work out the many details pertaining to them, a special Shipping Technical Committee of the Chamber has co-operated closely with Commander G. F. Hole, R.N., Harbour Master, and Messrs. W. O. Lambert and G. Swan, Government Marine Surveyors. To the Government Officers, and our Committee the thanks of the Chamber are due for the care and attention which they have readily given to all matters discussed. These included recommendations formulated by the Government Marine Surveyors who drafted a well thought out set of rules governing the use of Life-saving Appliances. In addition to these, there are many questions in connection with the construction and maintenance of ships which are also being dealt with in conference by the above Committee. It is to be noted, however, that these rules—however good they may be in themselves—come as an increased expense to Shipping Companies at a time when trade is at a low ebb, and put vessels of signatory countries to additional cost in competition with vessels of countries which have not signed their intention to adhere to the rules. In September last the Board of Trade decided to undertake the framing of these rules, and in order that due consideration might be given to local conditions, and at their request, Mr. Swan, Naval Architect and Government Ship Surveyor, proceeded to London to confer with them.

In an important harbour such as Hong Kong, the Chamber has of necessity frequently before it questions concerning regulation and improvement, either referred for opinion by the Government, or initiated by the Chamber. The importance, for example, of keeping Hong Kong as free a port as possible has been stressed on many occasions by the Chamber and by others.

In am glad to say that, after considerable discussion with the Government, a reduction has been notified in the Light Dues.

Another point with which the Chamber has dealt is the position and adequacy of Quarantine Anchorage. A number of big ocean steamers now using the port have found it advisable to use an anchorage in Kowloon Bay and this is now being defined as a regular Quarantine Anchorage for deep draught vessels entering from Lyceum, the existing Quarantine Anchorage at Stonecutters being maintained for the many local craft frequenting the western part of the harbour.

Currency Stability Needed.

With the opening of the World Economic Conference, it may be pertinent to emphasise the great difficulties under which merchants now transit business under existing unstable conditions of exchange. The Chamber still hold the view that it is not practicable for Hong Kong—which is first and foremost a port of distribution—to standardise the local dollar, but they do most heartily endorse the opinion that in a port such as this, dealing with many parts of the world, it is essential for sound trading to have a greater degree of uniformity and stability in international exchanges if business is to be conducted with a fair degree of security, and costs reasonably calculated between the time of ordering into consumption. One has only to realise the vicissitudes through which the piece goods and other trades are passing to bring home the vital importance of this matter. The existing variation and fluctuations in exchange and the margins between buying and selling rates may make a speculator's paradise for those concerned in purely monetary and exchange dealings but to the legitimate business interests of the Colony they are a serious menace, which is creating a very precarious situation. The majority of mercantile and industrial concerns in this Colony—in common with these and other industries elsewhere—have had to retrench and reduce overhead expenses and they are not out of the wood yet.

However, in spite of the difficulties to which trade is subject, and the problems with which China is faced, one cannot help being impressed by the progressive advancement throughout China towards modern factories and the use of modern manufactures. It is obvious that the fall in silver has helped China to develop a number of industries herself, and when she arrives at stable government, thus enabling the country to devote her finances to productive development, these industrial enterprises will further increase. This will naturally develop an expanding demand for machinery and material, bringing with it increased interchange of trade, and it behoves us here in Hong Kong to be alert towards future possibilities in both import and export trade which will benefit both China and other countries.

Wireless and Aviation.

With stable trade conditions restored, we are in an unequalled position in Hong Kong as a financial and distributing base where business can be transacted with security, and, in addition, it is up to us to see that we make the most of our natural advantages as a sea

THEFT OF A BANK DRAFT

YOUNG ACCOMPLICE "GIVES THE SHOW AWAY"

"Before this boy stands down, I want to make it very clear that if I hear of any attempt to interfere with him by anybody who is connected with his case, I shall strain every nerve to see that such person will be punished, and very severely punished," said Mr. Wynne-Jones yesterday at the Central Magistracy when he heard a case in which two Chinese were charged in connection with the theft of a bank draft on the American Express Company and two American ten dollar notes from Mrs. Florence Yim of 351, Lai-chikok Road on June 21.

Two other Chinese were also charged, one with uttering a forged document and the other with obtaining money by means of a forged document. The names of the defendants were, Kwan Chuk Shik, Ko Hi, Yu Kai Kwong and Tang Fo.

Before the case opened, Mr. F. X. D'Almada, Jr., told his Worship that he was representing the third defendant on behalf of Mr. A. el Arculli who was away from the Colony on holiday.

Detective-Sergeant Moran prosecuted while the other three defendants were not legally represented.

The first witness called was Mr. P. A. Notland of the American Express Company who said that the draft in question was cashed on June 23. It was sent out to him from Mr. Duggan, the manager, with a chit from Mr. Biggar, the manager of the Chase Bank. The chit was merely a request to pay the cheque either by cash or by order or by cash direct to Mr. Biggar. In answer to the Magistrate, witness said that he paid the cheque on the strength of Mr. Biggar's endorsement on it. So far as the signature of the drawer was concerned, witness said that he did not know anything about this but in all other respects, the cheque was in order.

Helped Him Get Money.

Mr. D. M. Biggar, told the Court that on the afternoon of Saturday, June 23, the fourth defendant who was a house boy, brought a cheque which was not endorsed and asked if he could help him get the money as the Bank had refused to pay him because he was not known to them. When asked how he got the cheque, the boy said that it belonged to his sister who received it from her husband in the United States. Continuing, Mr. Biggar said, "I asked him if that was true because if it was not so, he and all the other people connected with the cheque would be put in jail."

Witness said that he told the boy that it was necessary to get his sister to endorse the cheque first, and if he was quite sure the money belonged to his sister, he (witness) would help him get it. Witness said that on the following Monday the boy came back with the cheque endorsed when he (witness) again asked the boy if he was sure everything was all right with the cheque, as otherwise there would be trouble.

"I took the cheque down to town," said Mr. Biggar, "and I made a note of it so that if, at a later date, there should be any trouble, I could recall the circumstances. I then wrote to the manager of the American Express and asked him to send the money over to me."

Witness continued that about 12 noon, Mrs. Biggar went to the Bank with the boy and asked him if he had got the money as she said that she did not want him to have so much money on him and run the risk of losing it in the house. Up to that time, however, the American Express Company had not sent the money over so witness said he took the boy over to their place and there got the money from Mr. Notland who handed it to him in Mr. Duggan's office. He (witness) then went outside and gave it to the boy who said that he would go over to Kowloon to give the money to his sister and then return to the house.

The Fraud Discovered.

Witness said that about 3.30 p.m. the same day, he received a phone call from Mr. Duggan saying that there was evidence something was wrong with the cheque, as a lady had called to report its loss and to ask that payment be stopped on it.

"He asked me what I suggested," continued Mr. Biggar, "and I said, call the police and I'll be right over."

Mr. Biggar said that when the boy returned, he was searched and $20 was found on him. He was arrested and witness concluded his evidence by saying that he "let them have his car so they could round up the rest of the gang."

Sent to Cleaners.

The complainant in this case, Mrs. Florence Yim, said that she received the cheque (Exhibit "A") from her husband about two weeks ago and that she left it in the pocket of a jacket which she sent to the cleaners, Messrs. F. Steven and Co., on June 21. She discovered the loss on the following Monday and when she went to the shop to make enquiries about it, she was told to go to the head office in Nathan Road as they did not know anything about it. On being told here that they had not found anything in the jacket, witness said she went to the American Express Company to report the loss and to ask them to stop payment on the cheque, but she was told that it had already been cashed. Witness added that in addition to the cheque she lost two American ten dollar notes which were also left in the pocket.

The Virtuous Apprentice.

A young apprentice-cleaner, who found the notes and cheque in the pocket of the jacket was the next witness called. He was Pau Kam Yee, aged 14, and he told the Court that four or five days ago, he found a cheque and two American notes in the pocket of a jacket which had been sent to be cleaned. He took these to the first defendant who, after a consultation with the second defendant, decided to have the notes changed into local currency. Witness said he then went out with the second defendant to change the notes for which they got $65.80. On the way back, witness said that the second defendant suggested that they should each take $10 out of the amount first and when they finally got back to the shop, the balance, $45.80, was equally divided amongst the three of them.

Mr. Wynne-Jones: So that you two swindled the first defendant?—Yes.

Where was the cheque all the time you were away from the shop changing these notes?—The first defendant had it.

What happened to it?—On the next day he gave it to the second defendant and asked him to get a friend to cash it.

How do you know that?—I saw the handing over of the cheque.

Do you know if the cheque had been cashed?—No.

Do you know the value of the cheque?—No.

Did you expect a share of it?—I did not know if I would be allotted a share.

You were hoping for the best?—No.

You would not have refused a share?—No.

What happened to the $25.20 that you had?—I gave it to that European gentleman (pointing to Sergt. Moran).

All of it?—Yes, all of it.

Convicted.

At this stage the Magistrate remarked that there was no evidence against the third defendant and he was accordingly discharged.

When asked if they had anything to say, the first and second defendants replied in the negative but the fourth accused said that he was told by the third defendant what to tell his master.

Addressing the first two accused, Mr. Wynne-Jones said:—"The charge against you is amended to larceny by bailment. Not only have you yielded to temptation to steal the two notes, but you also went to a lot of trouble to get the cheque cashed. You have heard this afternoon what was the result. Somebody has committed forgery. This boy here (4th defendant) took a note to his master which he knew to be forged. You two started it and you will do three months' imprisonment each."

Turning to the fourth defendant, Mr. Wynne-Jones said:—"You were lying to your master and you knew it. Two months."

THE TUNG WAH HOSPITAL

MEMBERS of the local Rotary Club are performing a useful function in enabling residents to learn something about the Colony through the speakers at their weekly meetings.
It is an old complaint that the place is divided into "water tight compartments," and no one knows or cares anything beyond his, or her, personal concerns. It is, in fact, possible for a European to live a lifetime here and, at the end, to know next to nothing about China, never to have eaten a Chinese meal, to have no Chinese friends, to be entirely ignorant of Chinese customs, beliefs, art and history. Each foreign community has created a fairly close model of life in the Home country, and with that many people are content. The British and the Chinese have this in common; to strangers they are
by nature aloof and reserved.
Actually if a British person lives with people of another race for any length of time, he is generally very fond of them, settles down, and makes the place his home. In Hong Kong, however, for one reason and another there is not very close contact between the different communities. Nor, to be candid, is it a thing that can be forced by a few enthusiasts. It must grow of itself, under encouragement, but without artificial stimulation.
At the Rotary Club, Mr. M. K.
Lo has given an admirable lead in following up a suggestion of the Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, that Rotarians should tell fellow members of the Club, and simultaneously, via the Press and radio, other residents something of their respective communities. We have all of us heard of the Tung Wah Hospital, and knew vaguely that the Directors undertook other work of a charitable nature, notably in opening funds and making grants when urgent need arose for relief of suffering both within the Colony and in China. At the time of the great floods of 1931, and often enough

when the East and North Rivers have spread devastation in Kwang-tung, the Tung Wah directors were prominent in sending help to those in distress. They looked after the refugees at the time of the great Communist upheaval at Canton in 1929, and every day the newspapers give reports of shipwrecked sailors, kidnapped children, and other people in need of help being referred to the Directors of the Tung Wah Hospital. Mr. Lo's address gave a clear and vivid picture of the origins, growth, constitution and activities of this remarkable institution. The election of the Directors, and the courtly manner in which each nominee would twice decline the honour on the grounds of personal inadequacy, were described with charming humour, and gave a real insight into Chinese convention and courtesies. The Chairman is, moreover, in Mr. Lo's apt phrase, "the unofficial mayor of the Chinese community."

The figures given of the medical work of the three Hospitals, the Tung Wah, the Kwong Wah and the Tung Wah Eastern, are certainly surprising. In-patients in 1931 numbered 25,000 and in 1932, 25,000.
No wonder a big push is being made to pull down the old wards and rebuild on a large scale! The out-patient figures, as the speaker said, are staggering—491,000 in 1931, and 468,000 in 1932. Even as short a while ago as 1928 the figure was only 177,000, while the in-patients that year numbered 11,496.
The Tung Wah rightly claims to be the greatest and most important institution of its kind in the Colony and as Dr. Kotschal added
"no institution is better known or more highly esteemed outside the Colony." It has had cloudy, and even stormy times, such as when,
following the outbreak of plague in 1894, the Chairman was pelted with stones. No doubt it has its critics to-day, for no human enterprise, particularly one on so great a scale
can be perfect, and possibly future ages will consider the work done at the present time crude and primitive (as we so consider the pre-1890 period of the Tung Wah), compared with current enlightenment.
But one thing will always be recognised, namely, the devoted services of those who from the beginning have guided this hospital, and its associate activities, for the relief of many forms of human suffering and distress.

NINETEENTH ROUTE
ARMYTO BE INCREASED TO TWO DIVISIONS

CANTON, June 28.
It was learned that the 19th route army will be increased to two armies of six divisions. General Tai Chi, garrison commandant of Shanghai and Wusong will command one of the two armies.

This increase is deemed necessary for the defense of the country, as that army is already willing and ready to repel invaders as they did in Shanghai during the early part of 1932.

After expansion, there will be 19th and 20th armies. It is not certain as to who will be appointed commander of the 20th army.

At the same time, the 19th route
army is increasing its air strength.
The air force is at present composed of only nine fighting planes,
but overseas Chinese have contributed sixty planes to that army owing to their brilliant record in Shanghai. The 80 planes will be shipped to Fokien very soon.

This contribution is made with the expectation that the 19th route army will take arms to defend the country at any time of national danger.—Central Press.

TO EXPLORE MINERAL RESOURCES

CANTON, June 28.
The Kwangsi Provincial Government will send an expedition to Kwu Po Shan with a view to exploring its rich mineral resources.
Kwu Po Shan stands on the borders close to Kwangtung and Hunan.

It is believed that all sorts of rich mineral deposits are located in this mountain which awaits exploitation. Kwangsi industrial progress will be further accelerated upon opening the mines there which will also contribute to the material well-being of that province.

Iron, coal and wolfram are said to have imbedded in that mountainous area.—Central Press.

CANNED GOODS TO BE INSPECTED

CANTON, June 28.
Beginning on July 1, the bureau of testing commercial commodities will inspect all canned goods for export. This is to prevent shipment of stale and rotten goods abroad.

All such goods must be examined before they can be exported in accordance with an order of the Foreign Trade Committee of the South-west Political Council.—Central Press.

JOY RIDERS STEAL
AUSTIN SEVENCAR BURSTS INTO FLAMES
IN KOWLOON TONG

PETROL STATION ROBBED

An Austin Seven, belonging to Mr. Chung Shun Cheong of Kowloon Tong, which was left at the Star Ferry stand on Saturday at 3 p.m. was stolen by joy riders and after a merry drive round various parts of Kowloon was abandoned when it caught fire in the motor road near Kowloon Tong.

The owner, who did not go to the parking place, again unlucky, morning found the car missing. Investigation showed that the charred remains of the car found near Kowloon Tong was in fact his car.

There appears to be no indication as to whether the joy-riders were European or Chinese, but apparently the intention was not to steal the car, as after making an extensive tour the "borrowers" took the bold step of taking the car to the Kowloon Tong Store where they helped themselves at a filling station. The quantity of petrol taken was so big that it overflowed on to the engine and when the car started again it burst into flames before it had proceeded fifty yards.

It is not known whether anyone was injured, but seemingly the car was hastily abandoned when fire broke out.

The engagement is announced of George Frederick, son of the late
Mr. F. J. Wevill and Mrs. Wevill, formerly of Yokohama, to Sylvia,
second daughter of the Rev. Dr. J.
Ingram Bryan and Mrs. Bryan.

Insult.

"Yes, the smallest thing upsets

word puzzle and asked me 'What

"I said, 'Ewe' and she burst into tears."

Nothing New.

"There is nothing new under the sun." Even Corinthian Bagatelle which is so popular in homes and clubs is not a new game.

The Duke of Devonshire has a board, which to his own knowledge was old fifty years ago. It has holes and pins, is supplied with a miniature cue, and although not possessing all the features of the modern board has at least a strong family likeness.

"Anyone," he writes, "who saw my board would acknowledge it as the direct ancestor of its 20th Century representative."

Women at Cricket.

"The Oaks," Woodmansterne,
the curious old mansion evolved from an almshouse, after which one named, has associations with cricket as well as horse-racing.

Lady Derby, known in her day
as "The Maid of the Oaks," wife of the 12th Earl who founded both the Derby and the "Oaks," was an enthusiastic cricketer. By organizing "Ladies v. Gentlemen" matches she induced many women of her time to become more or less proficient in the game.

Request for Rain.

In describing at a charity meeting the hardships and loneliness of settlers in sparsely settled regions of Australia, a worker mentioned that there were children in Western Queensland (generally drought-stricken) who had not seen rain for seven years.

The statement reminded Lady Gaine, wife of the Governor of New South Wales, of an incident during one of her trips, when she heard a boy, who was singing the National Anthem, provide an unusual conclusion to it in the form of "long to reign over us, God send the rain."

Where Time Stands Still.

The Premier of New South Wales
(Mr. Stevens) capped this with a tale of a man from "back o' Bourke" in the far west of the state, who, meeting a Sydney politician recently, asked him if the war was over. On being informed that it was, he sought information
as to which nation had won.

When told that the British had,
he astonished the politician by saying, "I'm glad of that; I always did hate them Boers!"

From Youth to Age.

The middle fourth form master
at one of Britain's larger Public Schools asked the boys of his class to write a composition on what they considered were "The Duties of Headmasters."

One bright lad began his essay as follows: "Headmasters may be divided into two classes—(a) those who travel up and down the country attending conferences, and (b)
those who stay at home and attend to the duties they are paid to perform."

This is a perfectly true story, but one does not know whether the observant youth received full marks (or whether, if he did, the marks were on his person).

Preparing for the Worst.

Paris citizens are being trained in methods of protection against gas attacks from the air. The Military Governor arranged for army officers to conduct courses during June for instructors, who will include war veterans, schoolteachers and government employees.
These instructors will then undertake to teach the population the use of the gas mask. The plan for this widespread instruction has been developing all winter—Makers of gas masks, at least are delighted.

Legal Barriers.

Police Commissioner James S.
Bolton revealed how organized crime intrenches itself in New York City. The first move of a group of racketeers preparing to go into business in a big way is to consult able attorneys. They arrange their operations so as to avoid the conspiracy and coercion laws. Again and again the police, knowing all about what an organized ring is doing behind a fortification of lawyers, find themselves helpless. The commissioner defines a racket—it is the organized endeavour of lawbreakers to beat law-abiding citizens.

A Hopeful Humorist.

Stephen Leacock, the noted humorist and economist, has warning of the economic situation. He told the Canadian Political Science Association the change will come like the bursting of a log jam. He foresees shorter hours, higher wages and regulation of the production of basic commodities. He is gloomy over the future state of society. Socialism is branded as social slavery and Communism as a penitentiary.

He believes the survival of the fittest will continue. The human family will just have to fight it out in the old way.

GERMANY'S LONG TERM CREDITORSMEETING OF REPRESENTA-TIVES HELD, IN LONDON

LONDON, June 27.

ANOTHER meeting of the representatives of the long term creditors of Germany, including Great Britain, Holland, Sweden,
Switzerland and the United States was held in London to-day with Doctor Schacht.

Dr. Schacht agreed that all foreign exchange becoming available to the Reichsbank in the next six months shall be used for paying a proportion of every coupon and other revenue payments falling due from July 1 to December 31.

This proportion will be announced publicly by the Reichsbank before July 1 and will be such as to make sure that the proportion will be paid throughout this period.
It is hoped that after six months
the full payment of interest will be possible but should this prove not to be the case there will be another meeting of the representatives with Dr. Schacht in time to meet the position.

The Reichsbank announcement will deal also with the special position of the Dawes loan and the Young loan.

'Creditors' representatives were unable to accept the principle embodied in law of June 9, 1933 that in payments to the Reichsbank by a debtor should discharge the obligation to pay in foreign currency.
Dr. Schacht stated it was outside his authority to discuss that matter. It was however arranged that method of dealing with untransferred balances accumulating shall be dealt with by a small sub-committee which is to meet Doctor Schacht at beginning of next week in Berlin.

PREVENTION OF REACTION-ARY PROPAGANDA

CANTON, June 28.

Newspaper publishers are required hereafter to furnish a sum of $5,000 or a bond equivalent to that amount as security to engage in that business instead of $1,000 as before. Instructions to this effect were sent to the Southwest Political Council for the enforcement of this decree.

The increase of security is to prevent reactionary propaganda. During recent years, many newspapers sprang up in rapid mushroom growth, but they closed down again
after singing their hymn of hate against certain interests.—Central draft on the American Express dollar notes from Mrs. Florence Yim of 391, Laikok Road on June 21.

RETURN TO GOLD
STANDARDDESIRED BY PRESIDENT OF B.I.S.

London, June 28.

With the exception of the monetary sub-committee, two of which considered a resolution from the second sub-committee as regards the use of gold and the percentage of cover, all committees sat privately.

Mr. Fraser, president of the Bank of International Settlements said the committee was animated with a desire to expedite a return to the gold standard as an international monetary standard.

MATSUDAIRA'S VIEW.

It appears that Mr. Matsudaira at the Economic Sub-Commission feared a general lowering of tariffs by a collective agreement would lead to injustice. Reduction might be easy for a country with high tariffs but not those with moderate tariffs.

COMMITTEES TO SUBMIT PROPOSALS

[REUTER AND BRITISH WIRELESS.]

London, June 27.

As President of the Monetary and Economic Conference, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has convened a meeting of the Bureau of the Conference for tomorrow at which a report will be made of the developments to date and consideration will be given to co-ordinating and expediting the great mass of work in committee.

Much work was to-day done by the various committees, mostly in private.

The examination of questions relating to the circulation of monetary gold and the minimum legal cover for central banks was today completed by the appropriate sub-committee of the financial commission. This body has submitted the following recommendations:—

Gold.

"That under modern conditions, monetary gold is required not for internal circulation but as a reserve against central bank liabilities and primarily to meet external demands for payments caused by some disequilibrium on foreign account. It is consequently undesirable to put gold coins or gold certificates into internal circulation. That in order to improve the working of the future gold standard, a greater elasticity should be given to the central bank's legal cover provisions."

Trade Control.

A comprehensive report drafted by the economic sub-committee advocates the coordination of production and the marketing of important commodities of which surpluses exist.

The scheme, says the report, must command the assent of a substantial majority of producers and aim at securing the willing co-operation of importing countries.

DISARMAMENT
PARLEYSLONDON CONVERSATIONS POSTPONED

Rouvy, June 27.

IN ISSUING a denial of the report that the projected conversations in London regarding the disarmament conference has been abandoned, Mr. Baldwin said it was impossible to initiate them owing to pressure of other business during the opening stages of the economic conference.

The United States Government were convinced that such conversations were essential to the good progress of the work of disarmament conference and they believed that this conviction was shared by the President of the conference and the great majority of the delegations. They trusted that in spite of the regrettable delay it might be possible shortly to arrange for exchanges of views to take place.

WORLD'S SUGAR
TRADESUGGESTIONS TO WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

London, June 28.

The International Sugar Council has sent a letter to the World Economic Conference suggesting the conclusion of a convention in accordance with a draft closely following the Cuban proposals which propose that no new factories be constructed for 10 years, no new subsidies or bounties be granted and no increase in sugar tariffs which would raise the existing import duties above seventy per cent. ad valorem.

The Council emphasises the importance of such a convention being enforced as soon as possible in order that the present situation may not be made worse by the introduction of such measures.

UNABLE TO CO-OPERATE.

Sir Cunliffe Lister at the World Conference Economic Sub-Commission declared that Britain was unable to become a party to the Cuban sugar plan but offered to co-operate by other means to realise the aim of the plan.

The Cuban spokesman regretted that the British attitude had killed the plan and declared that if it was impossible to get even a truce in the sugar production of the eleven countries, whose views he shared, they would feel they were wasting their time at the Conference. Nevertheless, he agreed there was a greater chance of agreement in a small sub-committee which thereupon was formed. It includes the principal sugar producing countries, also China, Japan and the Netherlands.

NAZI PARTY IN FULL CONTROLNATIONALISTS NOW
DISBANDED

BERLIN, June 28.

ALTHOUGH the resignation of Herr Eugen Berg, leader of the Nationalists and German Minister of Economics, is not yet officially accepted, it is regarded as certain that it will be.

Meanwhile it is announced that henceforth all ex-members of the Nationalist Front, as the National Party is now called, will be equally recognised as fellow combatants of National Germany and will be protected from insult and discrimination.

The suppression follows the renewed demand for an all-Nazi Government made by Herr Esser, the Bavarian Minister, on Friday, when he invited the Bavarian Peoples' Party and the German National Party to commit harakari unless they preferred the same fate as the Socialists.

Wholesale arrests of National Party officials were made during the week.

All Nationalist political prisoners will be released immediately and Nationalist deputies in the Reichstag and Prussian Diet will identify themselves with the Nazi Parliamentary groups.

Herr Eugen Berg tendered his resignation last week, but President von Hindenburg declined to accept it. His resignation, the Nazis assert, will not affect the position of the Cabinet itself.

Herr Eugen Berg, who headed the German delegation to the World Economic Conference, was recalled last week.

UNEXPECTED THRILLS

LONDON, June 28.

After an uneventful first day, sensational surprises were provided to the large, fashionable crowd which attended Wimbledon in glorious weather yesterday.

Following F. J. Perry's elimination by the South African, Norman Farquharson, the Japanese champion, R. Nunoi, was defeated after a long and gruelling match with the young American, L. J. Stoecken. Unexpected thrills occurred when the four favourites for the title, Ellsworth Vines, Jack Crawford, Henri Cochet and Bunny Austin, were all forced to four sets.

Mrs. Helen Wills-Moody made a typical debut by reeling off twelve straight games to enter the Second Round of the Women's Championship.

PERRY BEATEN

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Norman Farquharson played amazing tennis against Fred Perry, the British No. 1 ranking player and one of the seeded eight.

He served powerfully and drove on both hands with tremendous punch. He advanced to the net in the first two sets and there he volleyed magnificently, showing unceasing anticipation.

Perry led throughout the third and fourth sets when he began successfully to force the pace, thus keeping his dangerous volleying opponent from the net.

The South African, however, staged a good recovery in the final set when he again attacked from the net, intercepting Perry's fastest returns. As the result of magnificent play Farquharson took a 2-0 lead, but Perry, faced with defeat, rallied well to level the scores at 3-3.

The South African then went to 5-3 as the result of a thrilling burst of overhead kills. He, however, threw away two match points through foot faulting and Perry crept up to 5-4. Perry then failed in his service and Farquharson led 4-0 love.

The South African had then three match points. Perry saved the first, and then Farquharson sent over a terrific forehand drive which he followed to the net. Perry returned it with a lob for the South African to finish off the match with a grand kill which left Perry sprawling.

The following were the results:—

CANTON, June 28.

Foreign medical doctors in Canton and other places in Kwangtung are required to obtain their license from the Ministry of Interior in Nanking before they are permitted to practise their profession, according to an official notification of the provincial department of civil affairs.

This ruling applies also to foreign hospitals in Kwangtung province and elsewhere. The notification says that foreign doctors are subjected to the same regulations as Chinese practitioners.

"While these regulations have been in existence for four years," the ruling states, "there are still some foreign doctors who have not yet applied for their license. Those who have not secured their license must do so immediately." —Affiliated Press.

ANTI-RED CAMPAIGN

FURTHER SUCCESS IN THE SOUTH

CANTON, June 28.

With the subjugation of Reds in Chumtu, southern Kiangsi, their remnant forces have cleared out of surrounding districts for fear of being pursued by government forces. Several small towns were captured by the Cantonese troops following a battle in which thirty Reds were killed and several soldiers were injured.

Chumtu is about 50 miles south-east of Huichang, while further up in about equal distance is Juichin, the headquarters of the so-called Soviet Socialist Republic of China handled by a handful of mercenary Reds.

The Cantonese troops are preparing to attack first Huichang and then Juichin. —Central Press.

London, June 28.

Invited to state the present position in Northern China, Sir John Simon, in the House of Commons, was unable to say whether the withdrawal of Japanese Forces to the Great Wall had been completed as Manchukuo Forces still occupied the neutral zone. The terms of the armistice had been communicated to the League by the Chinese Delegation at Geneva and he advised his questioner, Mr. Mander, not to assume that the terms were not being loyally observed.

CANTON, June 28.

High military officers in Charhar province have issued a circular telegram pledging the recovery of lost territories. For the time being, they will first drive out the Japanese invaders from northern Charhar and then recover other invaded territories.

Shortly after the receipt of the telegram here, Koo Yuen in northern Charhar was recaptured from the Japanese "Manchukuo" troops. According to Press dispatches from the north, General Feng Yu Huang is determined to recapture Dolor from the Japanese "Manchukuo" forces.

Forty-six northern generals have circulated a telegram opposing the Tangku armistice, the signatories including Generals: Chiang Tsai Huen, Wan Fu Lin, Ho Chu Kuo, Yu Hanch Chung and Feng Chan Hai. They declare that the Blue Shirts militarists in Nanking and the Japanese imperialists have allied against the best interests of the country as indicated in the Tangku truce which they strongly condemn. —Central Press.

SENSATIONAL ENDING TO
RYDER CUP CONTESTEASTERBROOK REGAINS TROPHY
FOR BRITAIN ON LAST GREENMitchell Beats Dutra By Nine
And Eight

London, June 27.

There was a dramatic finish in the Ryder Cup contest at Southport to-day. With one pair still to come in, Britain and America were all square.

The result depended entirely upon the Easterbrook-Shute match. At the end of the seventeenth hole on the second round, these two players were all square.

The Ryder Cup contest was therefore decided on the very last hole played, when Easterbrook holed out in five against six, to give Britain victory by six and a half matches to five and a half.

The results of the singles matches to-day follow:

MATCHES

Abe Mitchell (Britain) beat Dutra (America) by nine and eight.

Craig Wood (America) beat W. H. Davies (Britain) by four and three.

Gene Sarazen (America) beat A. H. Padgham (Britain) by six and four.

Walter Hagen (America) beat A. J. Lacey (Britain) by two and one.

Percy Alliss (Britain) beat Runyan (America) by two and one.

W. Horton, Smith (America) beat Claude Whitcombe (Britain) by two and one.

S. Easterbrook (Britain) beat Shute (America) by one hole.

Britain and America, therefore, share the singles matches four each. Britain having won the foursomes by two and a half to one and a half.

The Prince of Wales attended the contest this afternoon and watched all the matches in turn, afterwards presenting the cup to the British captain.

Tense Excitement.

The two countries were on level terms and Easterbrook and Shute were all square going to the thirty-sixth hole. There was tense excitement as both players placed their drives well down the middle. The British player's second shot was to the back of the green, while Shute was bunkered. Both players were short with their masher shots and missed shortish putts.

Shute missed his second putt and Easterbrook holed a four-footer for a 5 and the match amid cheers from the gallery of 15,000 spectators.

The following were the results of the foursomes played on Monday:—

Percy Alliss and Charles Whitcombe (Britain) halved with Gene Sarazen and Walter Hagen (U.S.A.).

Somerset, Glamorgan, Kent and Sussex gained decisive victories but despite a gallant innings of 133 not out by the Nawab of Pataudi, Worcester suffered an ignominious defeat at the hands of Glamorgan, who punished the Worcester attack to such an extent as to score 434 for 6.

Tung Wah Hospital Ordinance 1930

provides as follows:—

(1) There shall be a committee to be known as the Advisory Board whose duties shall be to advise the Directors upon occasion on any matter affecting the corporation or its administration.

(2) The Board shall consist of not more than fifteen persons, four of whom shall be nominated by the Directors of the previous year annually and shall hold office for one year, and the remainder of whom shall be appointed by the Governor for such period or periods, and upon such terms, as he shall think fit.

I may add that the Representatives of the Chinese have always been on the Advisory Board: as all Rotarians know, the present Representatives of the Chinese are Rotarians Sir Shou Son Chow, H. H. Kotewall, S. W. Tso, and T. N. Chau. These gentlemen, with Sir Robert Ho Tung, Mr. Li Yau Tsun, Rotarian Wang Kwong Tin, my father, Mr. Lo Cheung Shiu, and Mr. Li Po Kwei all of whom have been serving for many years, together with some more recent appointments, now constitute this Board.

To proceed with the quotation:—A perusal of the Report, and of the extracts printed at the end of this note, must strike the reader very forcibly as to the great strides which the Institution has made since 1899.

In those days Western medical and surgical treatment was not only non-existent in the Tung Wah, but was the object of deep-rooted distrust and suspicion. In the minds of most of the Chinese residents. Take, for example, the proposal suggested by some of the Commissioners (which was promptly acted upon) that there should be a Chinese Doctor educated and trained in Western methods who would give such general assistance as required, and keep the register of deaths. In reference to this suggestion Mr. Ku Fai Shan, Chairman in 1899, said to the Commissioners at the meeting held on April 10, 1899:—

"If you gentlemen were to give an order that it should be done, we would like it recorded in the books as one of the new rules of the Hospital, so that we might avoid having any trouble with the Chinese public. The directors would not like to have the same treatment accorded them as was accorded Mr. Lau Wai Chin during the Plague when he had his chair overturned and was pelted with stones. He was Chairman of the Hospital Committee at that time. We directors would get the blame if any new rule were introduced such as you propose. We would not dare to make the innovation ourselves."

"From this the reader may gain a fairly true impression of public opinion prevailing at the time. Hygiene was regarded as a fad; anti-septic and aseptic treatment was unknown. Cases of septicaemia were inevitable. . . . The materials extracted from the 'Ching Shun Lok' (annual reports) from 1899-1928, printed as appendices to the present, provide some interesting figures. From the commencement of the Tung Wah up to and including 1928, all accounts were kept in Taels; but converting them into dollars at the arbitrary rate of $1.40 to the Tael, it appears that the expenditure of the Hospital in 1899 amounted to $47,000 only. By 1928 this figure reached $372,150. The expenditure of the Hospital for the period 1899-1928 amounted to the huge sum of $3,914,893.

Steady Progress.

The increase in the number of Out-patients is not so striking. In 1899 the number of Out-patients was 171,761; in 1928 this figure was increased to 177,288. The total number of Out-patients for the period in question was 3,793,430. But the increase in the number of In-patients is remarkable. In 1899 the number of In-patients was 2,323; in 1928 this figure was increased to 14,490. The total number of In-patients for the period in question was 178,701.

The number of the staff in 1899, was 85 involving salaries amounting to $5,400; in 1928 the staff consisted of 217 persons, involving salaries amounting to $49,762.

After years of continuous efforts and improvements, what is the position of the Tung Wah Kwong Wah and the Tung Wah Eastern Hospitals to-day?

These Hospitals now possess operation theatres, with modern and efficient instruments, including shadowless lamps. They possess maternity wards, eye clinics, infant welfare clinics, women's diseases clinics, anti-natal clinics, tuberculosis wards, etc. The Tung Wah is equipped with an up-to-date X-ray apparatus of which full use is made in both diagnosis and treatment.

The report of Mr. Ngan Shing Kwan, Chairman of Directors, for the year 1931, covering, for the first time since the coming into operation of the Tung Wah Hospital Ordinance 1930, the administration by the Tung Wah of all the three hospitals, was published, sometime ago. The Report of Mr. Chan Lim Pak, Chairman of Directors, for 1932, has been sent in to His Excellency the Governor and will soon be published. I have been privileged to read a typewritten copy of this Report. I can assure you that both Reports are fascinating reading, and they give a better idea of the tremendous amount of good work that is being done than I can possibly do. I will, however, give you a few figures.

Big Figures.

Take the eye clinics. Dr. S. To Wong has been the Hon. Eye Specialist Consultant to the Tung Wah since 1929, and Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto has been, for about the same period, Hon. Eye Specialist Consultant to the Kwong Wah Hospital. The number of eye cases attended by Dr. Wong at the Tung Wah, with the able assistance of Dr. K. Y. Lai, in 1931 was 14,377, involving 437 eye operations; in 1932: 13,022, involving 500 operations. The number of eye cases attended by Dr. Basto and Dr. Tsang in 1931 was 3,650, involving 123 operations; in 1932: 3,147, involving 86 operations.

The total number of In-patients for the three Hospitals in 1931 was 23,732, and in 1932, 35,123. The number of Out-patients in 1931 was 491,000, and in 1932, 468,899. These are staggering figures, for the number of Out-patients treated in each year exceeded half of the population of the Colony according to the official census of 1931, the total population being stated to be 849,751.

The expenditure of the three Hospitals in 1931 came to just short of half a million dollars, and in 1932 came to more than half a million, the exact sum being $529,852.52.

Other Charitable Work.

I have told you something about the medical work of the three Hospitals. But the Tung Wah, in addition, performs a great variety of duties of a public, philanthropic and charitable nature, of which Europeans can scarcely have any conception. The Tung Wah runs about a dozen Chinese vernacular schools, with over 1,000 pupils; it settles local disputes of a commercial nature, chiefly referred to the Hospital by the Hon. the Secretary for Chinese Affairs; it investigates into cases of kidnapped boys and pursues lengthy enquiries with a view to restoring the kidnapped to their families; it undertakes the payment of gratuities to dependents on behalf of European Companies at the request of the Hon. Secretary for Chinese Affairs; it carries out the removal of ancient graves; it deals with cases of survivors from wrecks, and looks after destitute and destitute returned emigrants, etc., etc. In 1932, the number of destitute repatriated to their native districts was over 16,000.

It would be rather interesting to know the total sum collected by the Tung Wah since its incorporation, from residents and Chinese, overseas, for charity work in the Colony, and in relief of flood, famine, and other disasters abroad. I have no materials to form an estimate, but I imagine that the total must be stupendous. But as some indication of the extent of the charitable work performed in relief of suffering abroad, I may mention that in 1913, under the Chairmanship of my father, Mr. Lo Cheung Shiu, a sum of $600,000 was raised for flood relief in Canton and Kwangtung, and that for similar objects in China a sum of $380,000 was raised in 1924 under the Chairmanship of Mr. Ma Chi Lung, a sum of $400,000 was raised in 1931 under the Chairmanship of Mr. Ngan Shing Kwan, and a sum of $500,000 was raised in 1932, under the Chairmanship of Mr. Chan Lim Pak. The total of these four subscriptions amounts to $2,980,000.

The Directors.

It can be asserted, without any fear of contradiction, that from 1917 to the present time, each term of directors has done its best for and in the interests of the Tung Wah, and of the community, and that each has striven to uphold and maintain the fine tradition of devoted service of its predecessors. Progress has been continuous, and this of course implies unflinching effort. And so we find that this year's directors, headed by Mr. Pun Hin Cho, is trying to raise an adequate sum for the purpose of pulling down the old walls of the Tung Wah and of building a modern and up-to-date hospital on the old site, with ample open spaces and ventilation. Rotarian H. M. Siu is a member of the current Board of directors, and is the architect responsible for the plans. Mr. Pun has given me some copies of the Directors' printed Appeal for subscription containing sketch plans of the proposed building, which I have handed amongst you, and which I invite you to study. I feel sure you will join with me in hoping that this new and up-to-date hospital may be completed before the current directors hand over to their successors.

M.C.C. IS FACING A DILEMMA

DIVIDED OPINIONS ON BODY-LINE BOWLING

LONDON, June 29.

The sub-committee appointed by the M.C.C. to consider the whole question of "body-line" bowling, which is reported, sit under the chairmanship of Lord Hailsham. Though the full membership of the committee is not yet definitely settled, it will probably number upwards of half-a-dozen. Among those who are understood to have signified their willingness to serve on it are Lord Levensham, Lord Hawke, Sir Stanley Jackson, Sir Kynaston Studd, and Mr. Jevons Gwynne.

Evidence of every shade will be heard and carefully examined. Among those to be called before the committee will certainly be Mr. Warner, Mr. Paisley, and Mr. Jardine, and probably other members of the team who played in Australia. The findings of the committee will be of special significance in view of the forthcoming Imperial Cricket Conference, at which the future of Test Match cricket will be decided.

It is believed that Lord Hailsham is against this form of bowling and that he thinks there is a case to answer. What is more, there are indications that some of the other members of the sub-committee are coming to the same conclusion. There is a feeling among other members of the M.C.C. that the action of certain players in expressing their opinions on the question, either directly or by inference, has seriously complicated the position. These players, the leg-theory is making a great point of the fact that Maurice Tate has never suffered the same back-racking as Larwood, not even when the Sussex man was reaping a harvest of Australian wickets.

It has been urged that the best course for the M.C.C. would be to disregard the matter together and wait and see what happens in 1934, when the Australians are due here. It is declared that a considerable body of M.C.C. opinion takes a like view, on the same ground, namely, that any official action that can be interpreted as anti-leg theory will be hailed in Australia as an admission that English Test tactics were unfair.

There is general regret that the Australian Board of Control did not wait until the end of the tour and then word a dignified protest to the M.C.C. Had this course been adopted, the matter would have been simplified, it is contended, but as it stands, it seems as if the M.C.C. is divided on the question. The only thing that appears certain is that the deliberations of the ruling body are likely to be prolonged and difficult. Meanwhile, the whole of Australia is awaiting the M.C.C.'s verdict.

Reuter.

Besides the Rotarians I have already mentioned in connection with the Tung Wah, Rotarians Li Hoi Tung, and Tang Shiu Kin were former Chairmen of Directors of the Tung Wah, and that Rotarian H. Hong Shing, Lee Yu Cheung, and W. N. Thomas, Tam were former directors.

All who have had any experience of the work of these Hospitals cannot but realize that the directors, even with the able help of the permanent advisers, could not have accomplished their fine record of service without the close co-operation, assistance, financial and otherwise, and advice of the local Government, and I know that successive terms of directors have reason to be grateful, not only to the permanent advisers, but also to His Excellency the Governor, the Hon. the Colonial Secretary, the Hon. the D.M.S.S., Rotarian Dr. Wellington, and, above all, the Hon. the Secretary for Chinese Affairs who has ever been the Hospitals' kind mentor and friend.

I have endeavoured to give you some idea of one aspect of Chinese community service, and if I have succeeded in interesting you in this work and, above all, if I have succeeded in enlisting your practical sympathy to such an extent as to induce you to give a subscription to the Tung Wah for the new building, I shall feel very happy in the thought that I, as a Rotarian, shall have made a contribution, however humble, to the cause of one aspect, and an important aspect, of community service in the Colony. (Applause.)

CRAWFORD AND MISS SCRIVEN

SURPRISE FOR PERRY AND MISS NUTHALL

(Special Air-Mail Service)

LONDON, June 6.

Another French tennis title has come to the British Empire. Today Jack Crawford, the Australian champion, and Miss Marguerite Scriven, the Yorkshire girl, who lives at Byfleet, won the mixed doubles championship by defeating the holders, F. J. Perry and Miss Nuthall, in two sets. The score was 6-2, 6-3.

It was nearly a rout, Crawford and Miss Scriven, who had never played together until this tournament, winning eleven of the first fourteen games. Then, after they had led 5-1 in the second set, both playing magnificent tennis, their opponents made a brief stand and won two games before Crawford, whose volleying was superb throughout the match, made his last perfect volley, which pitched plump on the baseline.

Perry and Miss Nuthall were, disturbed by the novel formation of their opponents; they always seemed to find a racket in the way of their customary strokes. Whenever Crawford was returning service—and he did so with beautiful precision time and again—Miss Scriven was as near to the net as the rules would allow.

Last Word in Artistry.

Crawford did not come right up to make the parallel line; he was hovering round about the service line, ready to move across either way to handle any return. Both as a volleyer and as a half-volleyer, his touch was exquisite, and for the first time Paris saw the real Australian Crawford—alert and fighting every rally, a master of technique, thinking two strokes ahead, rarely, if ever, failing to bring off the finishing coup. Crawford's tennis to-day was almost the last word in artistry and intelligence.

Miss Scriven proved an admirable partner for this wonderful player. She had two bad games, losing every point in them, but in the others she was staunchly efficient, hitting just as hard as Miss Nuthall on the drive, dovetailing smoothly with her supporter, and when she got a volleyable ball, stowing it away with great gusto.

As usual, she moved very quickly over the court, racing to the wings to recover the right ball, and then belting it like Louis Raymond used to do on the run. The winners seemed to have all the assets.

Tandem Formation.

The comparative weakness of Miss Scriven's service was counterbalanced by the scoring service of her partner. Jack Crawford always placed the ball in the most awkward place for his opponent; he appeared to command the court from the moment his square-headed racket swung in the air.

Then, by adopting the tandem formation, by which the partner of the server stood at the net on the same side of the court, the returns of both the receivers were circumscribed. Miss Nuthall made a brave effort to break through the barrier, but she always seemed conscious of its presence, and she was never happy with the low-sliced volleys with which Crawford plied her.

The generalship of the Australian was as sound as it was effective. His primary object was to force the upward return, and he achieved it by an alternation of good length and put. The opposition had no counter plan of attack; one doubts whether they had even considered one. They found their usual game broken up by the master mind of the other side.

Brugnon Past His Prime.

The singles championship was, meanwhile, advanced in dull and threatening weather, and on courts still slow and damp. Franco, lost Brugnon and Merin, but retained Boususs. De Stefani, of Italy, who is going to England in a few days for the Davis Cup tie, was always too accurate and too mobile for Brugnon, whose prime as a singles player is now past, although he keeps all his old form in doubles.

Young Merlin, was put out by Colin Robbins, who was always too steady and generally too cute for the Frenchman. The South African champion is running into his best form, and may well prove a thorn in the side of any of the survivors. He has a splendid temperament for a long fight, and although his game rarely sparkles, it is eminently sound. He is never wrong-footed.

WALES.

KOWLOON BUS SERVICE

Dear Sir,—In supporting your article of the 27th June on the Kowloon 'Bus Service, I should like to add—with regard to the Kowloon Tong Service—that, now that the 'bus services on the mainland are under unified control there is no reason why tickets should not be inter-changeable i.e. it should be possible for Kowloon Tong residents to travel on any 'bus travers-ing Prince Edward Road and continue on a 7 or 8 with the same ticket provided, of course, that the full fare to Kowloon Tong had been paid on the first 'bus. Besides being a great convenience to Kowloon Tong residents it would have the immediate effect of relieving the overcrowding on the 7 'bus which is so prevalent between the Star Ferry and Homantin. If this suggestion were adopted it would be necessary for drivers of Nos. 7 and 8, when they see a 6 or a 10 approaching the cross roads by St.
Teresa's Church, to wait there for a moment in case there are any passengers wishing to make the connection for Kowloon Tong. During the rush hours an extra 'bus might be detailed for duty along Waterloo Road between Prince Edward Road and the top of the Tong.

From the Magistracy

The managers of five factories in Kowloon were summoned before
Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday for allowing women to work in their factories after the regulation hours. All pleaded guilty and were each fined $50.

Damage to the extent of approximately $40 was done when fire broke out in the back-yard of
No. 628 Shanghai Street, ground floor, at about 8.30 a.m. yesterday.
Three fire appliances turned out in response to the alarm, but it was only necessary to use buckets
to put out the blaze.

For failing to report a change of her address a woman named Wong Ming-yung, of No. 554 Nathan Road, who had two registered multatis, was fined $15 by Mr. Butters at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

Fong Yuet Kiu, a woman residing at No. 137, Cheungshawan Road, was fined $100 by Mr. Butters at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday when she was summoned for keeping an unregistered mul. tat. She stated that she bought the girl some years ago in the Straits Settlements and when she brought her to the Colony she did not know she had to have the girl registered at the

WESTERN MEDICINE PREVAILS

REVOLUTION OF OUTLOOK IN THE NEW TERRITORIES VILLAGES

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT)

It is a well-known fact that the local Chinese people have made very rapid strides towards 'western civilization' in recent years, and it is a matter of opinion as to what way they have changed most. Many are of the opinion that the fact that they now allow their women folk so much freedom speaks volumes for the new ways, but, comparatively speaking, this step is only a minor one. I do not think I will be very far off the mark when I say that the way they have taken to Western medicine and treatment for all forms of illnesses is one of the biggest, if not the biggest step they have taken.

I am not basing my argument on hearsay. I have facts to substantiate my statement, but as I do not propose to give a long list of figures in this article, I will mention that if such statistics are required, they may easily be obtained from the authorities.

Not so many years ago, the Chinese of the poorer classes would think one had designs for murder or something approaching it if one suggested that they send their sick to a hospital. With them, western medical science and the knife are inseparable; they thought a western medical practitioner could not cure any form of sickness, no matter how slight, no matter how superstition, without the aid of his trustworthy knife, and as for chiding in a medical man in cases of child-birth, they all thought that there could be no surer way of rousing the wrath of the gods. Have a strange man present when a woman is about to give birth to a child! Disgraceful!
Why cannot the poor woman be left alone with one of the many 'witch doctors,' who would attend to the case for a fee of fifty cents! If there were no witch doctors near at hand, perhaps one of the older women in the village could attend to the case just as efficiently, but to call in a doctor would only mean ruining the mother's reputation, and never again would she be able to hold up her head.

The World Moves On.

But while these people were very firm as regards this side of their lives, the wheel of the universe must needs move on, and with Time, everything has to change, so that it did not come altogether as a surprise when years and years ago, the Chinese, of the more educated classes and those who could afford it, did call in doctors on such occasions.

I can well imagine the disgust of the servants of those people when they heard that the master was calling in Doctor So-and-So to attend to the mistress in her great hour of trial. Had the master no sense of decency? Why could not he have called in a midwife? But after one or two examples of this, even the ignorant servants got quite used to it and they began to talk about it to servants of other families. Much to their surprise, they found that the same thing had been going on in other households, but when they carried the news back to their homes in the far off countryside, they were either treated with much suspicion (as regards their powers of exaggerating the truth, or untruth) or they were told not to discuss the subject. But so many people began to talk about this, that, although they quite believed that such a practice was tolerated by the Chinese in a foreign land, they themselves would rather die than be subjected to such a humiliation.

In The New Territories

How then, have they changed so suddenly? Much of it is due to the excellent work put in by the members of St. John Ambulance Brigade who go out to the New Territories on vaccination campaigns and also to give health talks to these people. They were gradually taught that western medical science does not necessarily begin and end with operations, but when operations were necessary, they were nearly always successful.

These peasants were not forced to patronise western practitioners.
They were told what doctors could do, they were taught a few home cures and they were given demonstrations of what must be done in the different cases, and above all,
they were taught hygiene and the value of keeping clean. In cases where they were suffering from ordinary skin diseases and rashes, the Brigade workers spoke to them and left medicines and instructions, and when they knew that they could come to no harm in a following instructions, the peasants began to use these medicines.

Thus from little things, they were taught to believe in scientifically prepared medicines etc., so that when they were really sick, they thought of the shui yee (Western cure) and what it could do for them. Although there were by this time quite a number of converts,
the more obstinate ones still stuck to their primitive doctors, and their weird cures and medicines.
That was why, some couple of years ago, the local hospital authorities confronted the very difficult task of trying to educate the people to bring their sick in for treatment
in the early stages of their illnesses, and not wait till all hope had been given up before taking the step.

Western Methods Triumph

Despite the fact that they resisted they had a gigantic task ahead of them, those concerned in the work of converting the natives in the New Territories went about their work with such vigour that today it is perhaps the exception rather than the rule for the sick people in the outlying districts not to be taken to western practitioners. But that is not all. The biggest obstacle has been overcome at least, and the expectant mother no longer hesitates to go to the hospital now. In fact there have been so many cases lately that the medical welfare centres established by the St. John Ambulance Brigade and the Chinese Medical Practitioners' Association in Kam Tin and Tsun Wan are made full use of by the peasants.

They swarm to these places whether it is to have a cut finger attended to, or whether it is something really serious and requiring skilled attention. So far as the maternity wards are concerned, I learned that these are doing very good 'business' and there have been cases where word was sent to Kowloon or even Hong Kong for a doctor or nurse to help in a case which proved more difficult than usual.

The people of the New Territories, or at least the greater number of them have allowed themselves to be educated to such an extent now-days that although they still take their primitive medicines (made up mostly of herbs) in the not too serious cases, they will not hesitate to go to the nearest doctor for anything which is out of the ordinary,
and they do not fear the knife—at least not more than the rest of us!

HARBIN'S "CAT" BRIDE!

CLIMBS DOWN PIPE TO MEET BRIDEGROOM.

HARBIN, June 21.

The local press relates how a young girl, in her determination to marry the man of her choice, escaped through a window of her parents' apartment on the third floor, climbed down a water-pipe to the second story, in the approved "cat" burglar manner, and then by a ladder to the street, where the best man was waiting to take her to the church for the ceremony.

As the girl's parents were determined to prevent the marriage, the two principals, with the assistance of several friends, made secret arrangements for the wedding.

The wedding dress was purchased and handed to a friend, at whose home, the bride was to dress.

A supper had been arranged, to which only close intimate friends had been invited.

Everything went without a hitch until the hour fixed for the ceremony, when, as no bride showed up at the church, the "best man" and three other sympathizers were sent to find out what had happened, and to rescue her, if necessary. It appears that the young lady's parents had discovered the plot, and had promptly, and as they thought, efficiently, taken such measures as were necessary to prevent the marriage, by locking the bride in her room. When the best man reached the girl's home, and was told that the bride was being held a prisoner, he borrowed a ladder.

As this was too short to reach the third story, the bride climbed through a window, and down the water-pipe until she reached the ladder, by which she safely descended to the street.

The best man lost no time in driving her to the friend's house, where she donned her wedding dress, after which they drove to the church, where the ceremony was performed without any hitch or interference.—Reuter.

and also air port. In this connection you will note the work which the Hong Kong Government propose to carry out at Kai Tak Aerodrome, including the construction of a hangar for commercial aviation, with an administrative block and passenger booking office, in readiness for impending developments in long-distance aerial services. The Government's wireless services are also very efficiently run and are of considerable benefit to the community, especially in providing means of communication with places unconnected by cable or land lines; in ship to shore and meteorological work, and in providing the broadcasting service which is much appreciated by the public. The development of new local industries in Kowloon and the New Territories, supplied with electric power, good water and road access, is also in evidence.

Recently we had a visit from Mr. Louis Beale, H. M. Commercial Counsellor, who has demonstrated practically at Shanghai what a keen and experienced man in his position can accomplish. British members of the Chamber will welcome the recent announcement that a Commercial Secretary is to be appointed at Hong Kong. Work of first importance has been done by the Commercial Counsellors to the Legation at Peking in interpreting to the business interests of the United Kingdom the requirements of commercial and industrial development in China, in making known at home the needs of these markets, and in development and assisting the completion of comprehensive function which the individual merchant, working mainly within the limits of her own business, cannot undertake to any substantial degree. He can, however, see to it, in his own interest, that any information he can usefully contribute to the Commercial Counsellor's budget of facts is duly made available, and I hope he will see that it is to his advantage to do so, all the more when we have a representative here.

Increase in Members.

Turning to the domestic organization of the Chamber of Commerce, it is gratifying to record that our membership has increased since the last annual meeting, and since the Annual Report was completed. This increased support is most welcome, and I hope will be extended still more widely for we need a somewhat larger annual income. The Chamber of Commerce has been prepared to deal with any matter affecting the business interests of the Colony, and should be supported by all substantial business institutions and firms here.

You are being asked to-day to confirm the election by the Committee of twelve members, whom I take this opportunity of welcoming to our ranks. Some are old members who have rejoined. One, Mr. Eric Grimble, joins the Chamber of Commerce in succession to his father, whose familiar figure is much missed in the business and social life of Hong Kong. Another valued member of the Chamber who passed away during the year was Mr. J. H. Backhouse, whose death is a great loss to the business community.

We also have to record with great regret the death which occurred a few days ago of Mr. Chao Yue Teng, one of the soundest of Hong Kong Chinese merchants and of the highest integrity, whose advice and experience have been of great value to the Chamber. Our deep sympathy is extended to his family.

With regard to the Accounts, you will note that excess of expenditure over income amounts to $3,300.44. An important item in the Chamber's income in the past has been fees from rice surveys under the Chamber's standards, set up to meet the requirements of the consuming markets. The rice trade to Central and South America has, under prevailing economic conditions, and tariff restrictions, seriously decreased. Trade revival and an increase in membership, as indicated above, should help to put us on the right side again without having recourse to our reserve funds.

For some years the Chamber has subscribed to Reuters Commercial Telegram Service and has issued a daily report to members interested. I desire to call attention to this service because in the last two years there has been a falling off in the number of subscribers, with the result that the cost per head is increasing. The service would be quite inexpensive if more members would take it. Particulars may be obtained from the Secretary.

In Mr. Key and Mr. Price we have a hard-working staff always ready to further the interests of members and at the instance of the Committee to take on additional duties for the benefit of the commercial community. One instance of this is the recent Empire Fair which has meant a great deal of extra and late work for Mr. Key, which he has undertaken entirely voluntarily. The Chamber in this respect is well served in its permanent staff, and the Committee have decided that they should become eligible for a contributory Provident Fund, based on a qualifying period of ten years.

With these remarks I beg to propose that the Annual Accounts and Report be adopted, and I shall be glad if someone will second.

MR. K. S. MORRISON.

Mr. K. S. Morrison seconded the motion. He said:

Before proceeding to second the adoption of the Report and Accounts, I should like to associate myself with the Chairman's expression of regret at the death of Mr. George Grimble, Mr. J. H. Backhouse and Mr. Chao Yue Teng, all of whom were respected members of this Chamber and of the community.

Looking over the Chamber's Annual Report one cannot but be impressed by the enormous amount and variety of work and investigation carried out in the course of a year. Touching briefly upon some of the main activities, the assistance rendered in regard to the British Preference regulations has been invaluable to merchants.

Mention is made of the serious concern with which the new revised Chinese Maritime Customs import duties have been viewed, and it is to be sincerely hoped representations seeking some relief may be successful. Otherwise the cotton textile trade will be very adversely affected.

Shipping questions in connection with the harbour are pleased to learn have been engaging the serious attention of the Committee. One cannot but endorse the importance of keeping Hong Kong as free a port as possible and of seeing that the facilities available cope with the future developments of Far Eastern trade. Located as we are we must see to it that we keep abreast of the times on sea and land also in aerial requirements. We all observe with pleasure the Government's proposals for development at Kai Tak in connection with commercial aviation, and hope this portends early effective linking up of the Colony with world-wide air routes.

The intended appointment of a Commercial Secretary will, I am sure, be welcomed by all British members.

I now desire to say a few words about the piece-goods or textiles contract. Negotiations with the Guild brought to light many discrepancies in the present Manchester and Bradford Contract, and the draft terms which you are asked to-day formally to approve remedy those defects. As the Chairman has pointed out, the terms of the draft represent in the main those upon which the bulk of the textile trade of the Colony has been carried on for the past twelve months, and I feel confident, therefore, they will not only meet with your approval but will also be acceptable to Manchester and Bradford.

With regard to currency difficulties, we can only follow with close interest the sessions of the World Economic Conference, and trust deliberation now proceeding may eventually bear more fruit than appears likely at the moment.

The information that the Committee have made arrangements for a Provident Fund to be available to our indefatigable Secretary and the permanent staff, has I feel sure, the approval of us all.

Before concluding, I feel I am voicing the wishes of members in expressing thanks to the Chairman and Committee for their watchful care of our interests, and the good work they have done on our behalf.

With these remarks I have much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the Report and Accounts.

TEXTILES AND YARN CONTRACT

The Chamber next considered the draft of the "Hong Kong Textile and Yarn Contract."

The Chairman said: "I beg to move the adoption of 'The Hong Kong Textile and Yarn Contract,' copy of which was first circulated to piece-goods importers in October 1932. As no suggestions for amendment were received, I take it that the draft meets with general acceptance. It was re-circulated with the notice convening this meeting because two small verbal amendments have since been made. This is merely 'The China Contract of 1922' in an improved form. Will someone second the motion?"

Mr. G. W. Sewell in seconding the approval of the draft of 'The Hong Kong Textile and Yarn Contract" said "He felt sure that the meeting would agree that the thanks of the Chamber were due to the drafting committee consisting of Messrs Morrison, Backhouse, and L. J. Davies. They had put in a tremendous amount of work in connection with the matter." Mr. Sewell concluded with the remark that if ever the Chamber's legal sub-committee deserted them they had very good substitutes in the gentlemen named.

Arbitration Clause Criticised.

Mr. F. Lobel said that before the contract was adopted he would like to say that he felt there was room for improvement in the clause for arbitration. He said that according to his reading of the clause an arbitration would not be binding on three parties that is to say the dealer, the importer and the export merchant in Manchester. He thought that at present the finding of the arbitrator would not be binding on the Manchester firm at all, and if they refused to abide by the award another arbitration would then be necessary.

Cancellation of Contract.

Mr. Lobel raised a second point and said that he would like to address the meeting on the question of exchange losses due to cancellation of contract. He said the question was a very old one but he did feel that in nine cases out of ten cancellation was the result of rise in exchange, thus throwing a very heavy loss on the importers. He thought the question should be put to Manchester again, as if silver went up they would have the same trouble as they had had in 1931 and that would lead to further cancellation of contracts and involve a number of losses in exchange.

Mr. Morrison, who was chairman of the Draft Committee, replying to Mr. Lobel, said that the clause was framed in the Manchester Contract to provide that when the Manchester supplier agreed to arbitration, the arbitration between the importer and the Chinese buyer could be made binding for him as well. The Draft Committee had given very careful consideration to such cases as that which Mr. Lobel had outlined and it was felt that that clause in the contract would cover anything of that nature which might arise.

The Chairman: I think as regards the arbitration we could put on record what Mr. Lobel has said and what Mr. Morrison has replied. The exchange question is a bit tougher.

In reply to another question, Mr. Morrison said that about ten of the leading firms in Hong Kong were doing business under this contract in its present form.

The resolution was then put and carried unanimously.

NEW COMMITTEE

The election of the new committee resulted as follows:—Hon. Mr. C. Gordon Mackie, Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson, Hon. Mr. Paul Lauder, and Messrs. J. K. Bousfield, S. H. Dowell, L. N. Murphy, T. H. R. Shaw, A. L. Shields, F. Stafford Smith and T. E. Pearce.

Messrs. Percy Smith Seth and Fleming were re-elected auditors of the Chamber while the following members had their election confirmed:

Messrs. Arnhold & Co., Ltd., Messrs. F. Feld & Co., Ltd., The Far East Aviation Co., Ltd., Messrs. S. J. David & Co., The Dunlop Rubber Co., (China) Ltd., The Hong Kong Stock Exchange, Messrs. Amritlal Ojha & Co., Ltd., Messrs. Tat Kuan & Co., Messrs. Furness (Far East) Ltd., Messrs. Wallem & Co., The China Products Export Co., Mr. Eric Grimble.

Strengthen those weakened Nerves

SO TYPICAL ARE MOST OF the symptoms of "nervousness" that you can quite easily recognise nerve-weakness in yourself, your husband or your children. Irritability, fretfulness, loss of appetite, nervous headaches, sleeplessness—all these are signs of failing nerve strength. Isn't it only logical to give your weakened nerves an extra infusion of strength if you want to regain new health and vitality?

Feed your weakened nerves with Sanatogen.

Sanatogen was made to strengthen the nerves and must do you good because it provides your body with nature's own building material of nervous energy, namely phosphorus. Sanatogen will give you strength to escape from that run-down condition and will bring you back to splendid health and vitality.

"In a half-hearted fashion I bought a tin of Sanatogen, but before getting to the end of it my spirits revived considerably and now I feel my happy self again. It made a tremendous difference to my whole life." Mrs. C. H. S.

Try this wonderful influence of Sanatogen on your health and happiness by starting a course of this famous tonic-food to-day.
